Fear 122 Miners Dead in Disaster

By Tom Maddox

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 26, (AP)—Hope of life for the last of 122 men entombed in a coal mine explosion all but flickered out today, but rescue workers kept digging away nevertheless in a gaseous, clogged-up passage 540 feet underground.

The picking and the toiling, slow work in the thick of the lingering fumes, in about 20 hours had accounted for only nine survivors of the 131 caught in the blast just a few minutes before quitting time yesterday.

Old hands at such things agreed: the entombed men hadn't a chance.

But the sleepless families of the men, quiet and staring, stayed on at the bleak tipple to face the worst.

Mine Worker Is Killed

Richard Mather, 10311 Saskatchewan Drive, was killed in an accident at the Riverdale Coal mine, Namsco, on Wednesday morning. According to mine officials Mather was working on top of the mine putting iron pipes down the air shaft. It is believed that one of the pipes which Mather was handling touched an electric wire and knocked him off the ladder. He then fell, along with the ladder, 10 feet down the air shaft.

Jack Hays' ambulance rushed the man to the Royal Alexandra hospital about 12:15 p.m. On arrival at hospital the injured man was pronounced dead.

THE NINE SURVIVORS did not include some rescue men who had rushed down the shaft, fallen in the fumes and been saved by others.

Some of the dead had been counted, but there was no hurry to get the bodies to the top. The main effort was centered on butting through fallen timbers and other debris and sealing the rooms off one by one as they were searched.

If none of the missing men is found alive, this will go into the records as the country's worst coal mine disaster in nearly 19 years—since 195 were killed at Mather, Pa., May 19, 1928. It would be the worst in Illinois since the Cherry mine disaster of 1906, which took 239 lives.

THE EXPLOSION occurred with a rumbling "boom" at about 3:30 p.m. CST—just before the day shift of 131 was about to give way for a night crew. The night men were standing around waiting for their time, and for that reason there was no shortage of rescue workers.

Clouds of thick, milky gray smoke curled out of the shaft, and before it faded in the cold wind ambulances, inhalators, doctors and nurses were on the way from

For Manslaughter

Mrs. Dick Is Given Life Term

HAMILTON, March 26, (CP)—Life imprisonment was the sentence imposed today by Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel on Mrs. Evelyn Dick, 27-year-old Hamilton widow convicted last night of manslaughter in the death of an infant said to be her own son.

BEFORE MR. JUSTICE LeBel passed sentence, a psychiatrist, Dr. R. A. Finlayson, described Mrs. Dick's mentality as "approaching that of the morose classification." She had been charged with murdering the child, but in his charge the trial judge told the jury it could bring in a verdict of guilty of murder, guilty of manslaughter or not guilty.

Mrs. Dick sat through two days

Will Select Leader

Liberals to Hold June Convention

More than 600 Alberta Liberals will convene in Edmonton on Wednesday and Thursday, June 25 and 26, to select a leader for the provincial party.

Announcement of the convention was made Wednesday by J. W. Stambaugh, Bruce, president of the Alberta Liberal Association.

At a provincial conference held in Red Deer nearly 18 months ago, the Liberals decided to completely separate from the Independent party and contest the next Alberta provincial election as a party.

Since that time Mr. Stambaugh has been surveying the province, and contacting Liberals with a view to party re-organization.

DELEGATES to the convention will be selected on the basis of ten for each provincial constituency, with corresponding multiples for the multiple members constituencies.

No announcement has yet been made of the names of prospective leaders.

Control of Prices to Remain In Effect Declares Abbott

OTTAWA, March 26, (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott announced today in the Commons coupon rationing of meat will be discontinued effective tomorrow. He announced that meatless Tuesdays and Fridays in public eating places will continue in force and the prices board will continue an area distribution of meat in an effort to ensure an equitable distribution of the available meat supply to specified domestic areas.

Heavy Damage

Huge Tidal Waves Rip New Zealand

AUCKLAND, N.Z., March 26—(CP)—Two huge tidal waves, estimated at 30 feet high, today struck a 60 mile stretch of the east coast of North Island, New Zealand, wrecking many buildings and damaging roads and bridges.

THE FIRST wave struck the Poverty Bay coast at 8:30 a.m. local time (3:30 p.m. CST, March 25). Approximately an hour earlier the New Zealand observatory had reported "a very severe earthquake some miles out to sea."

The second wave rolled into the bay an hour later.

Apart from the town of Gisborne, where some streets became salt water rivers four feet deep, the area affected was populated thinly, mainly by holidaymakers in summer cottages and some farming families.

RESIDENTS along the sea shore, warned by the roar of the approaching wall of water, raced to higher land and no drownings were reported.

Gisborne is a town of about 16,000 population.

Storm in Ontario Takes Five Lives

TORONTO, March 26, (CP)—A warning to stay off the roads in the storm-swept south of Ontario from Cochrane south to the lower lakes came today from the Ontario department of highways. Only in the department's Hamilton division were all main highways open.

THE STORM, which came from Missouri yesterday and brought with it heavy snow, high winds and intense cold, was blamed for at least five deaths, isolated a score of villages in the northern part of Waterloo County and interfered with train and bus schedules.

As cold polar air settled over the entire province, strong winds continued to pile the fresh snow in deep drifts and reduce visibility on highways virtually to zero.

Caught in the storm during a fishing expedition on Lake Simcoe, near Toronto, Mrs. Margaret Andrews, 35, wandered more than 20 hours on the lake ice before search parties found her. She is recovering from the effects of exposure.

Russia Ignores Council Session

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 26—(AP)—Soviet Russia ignored the opening session today of the United Nations trusteeship council which is to look after the interests of the world's non-self-governing peoples.

The absence of a Soviet delegate did not prevent the council from proceeding with its immediate business. It caused concern, however, among U.N. officials worried by what appeared to be a growing trend to bypass the organization of important problems.

There was no explanation from the Soviet U.N. delegation headed by Andrei A. Gromyko, deputy foreign minister.

In Canada

Probe Complaints Paper Conspiracy

WASHINGTON, March 26—(AP)—The Justice Department disclosed today that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is investigating "complaints of a conspiracy among newspaper manufacturers operating in Canada" and said it expects "to proceed further by means of grand jury subpoenas."

NEWS OF THE investigation first came from Senator Lister Hill, who released a letter from Assistant Attorney-General Wendell Berge, anti-trust chief, saying that grand jury action is expected "in the near future."

The printing industry has complained for months of a newspaper shortage and the Senate's small business committee recently summoned producers and publishers to a series of conferences seeking a voluntary solution.

"The complaints have alleged that this conspiracy restricts production, fixes prices and allocates the available supplies to favored newspaper publishers."

"SEVENTEEN THOUSAND small publishers use only 17 per cent of the newspaper supply. The survival of these small enterprises is essential to our free, competitive economy. They must not be permitted to expire because of greediness on the part of a few mammoth monopolistic businesses."

Hill said newspaper prices had risen from $31 to $54 a ton.

Much Disagreement At Big 4 Parley

MOSCOW, March 26—(AP)—Formal Russian opposition to an American, British and French proposal that China should be one of the inviting powers to a proposed conference on Germany was officially disclosed tonight. With release of a report from the council of foreign ministers deputies to the Big Four Council itself on procedure for preparing the German peace treaty, a wide variety of disagreements became officially evident.

THESE FOLLOWED the same pattern of splits heretofore unofficially reported from the deputies' meetings over such issues as the kind of voice that should be given to all countries in treaty making and whether the German government should be compelled to sign the treaty.

The peace conference report, which the deputies gave the council of foreign ministers two days ago, said: "The United Kingdom and the French delegations consider that China should be one of the convening powers of the conference. The Soviet delegation disagrees."

AT THE TIME this report was written, the United States had re-

Flood Disaster Past Peak in U.K.

LONDON, March 26—(AP)—Gale warnings flashed on Britain's coasts today while the worst floods in 300 years receded slowly in all areas.

Improving conditions were reported from the hard-hit Fenlands farm region in the east and from the northern industrial belt. There were scattered showers.

ARMY AMPHIBIANS still carried food to marooned families in the north and thousands of refugees in an evacuee centres, but all reports indicated the peak of the disaster had been passed.

Dispatches from Warsaw, in Poland, said reports indicated there were 50,000 homeless persons along the flooding Vistula but that the waters are receding. Hundreds of square miles of farmland were reported inundated.

To Hear Yugoslavians On Austrian Treaty

LONDON, March 26—(AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight the council of foreign ministers had agreed to invite a Yugoslav delegation to "express its point of view" on the treaty to establish a free and independent Austria. "The question connected with the calling of the peace conference was then discussed, as well as the question of the allied states in the preparation of the German peace treaty," the brief broadcast said.

M. L. Oliphant, atomic scientist—"It is probably true to say that, as a great military and industrial power, in the narrow sense of those terms, Great Britain has passed the prime. However, in the world of intellectual affairs she is far from finished, and, in the future, as in the past, intellect may count for more than brawn."

ATTORNEY GENERAL S. R. Hartley Shawcross—"Britain is no more dying today than she was in 1940. At that time many of our friends, who did not understand the British people, thought that we were dying. But the idea never even occurred to any of us here as a possibility. And I can assure you that we have even less intention of dying now."

Curfew Follows Delhi Stabbing

NEW DELHI, March 26 (CP)—One isolated case of stabbing was reported in the old section of Delhi today. A 24-hour curfew was promptly imposed in the area concerned. Dispatches from Patna reported British troops had fired on demonstrating civil police strikers in that provincial capital today, killed one policeman and two civilian bystanders. The police struck yesterday to protest suspension of a member of the force.

WINTER SOON FORGOTTEN: A week ago, snow and water covered the city and district, and rinks still attracted large numbers of skaters. The Regional War Labor Board for Alberta will cease operations at the end of this month, it was announced Wednesday by G. B. Henwood, K.C., board chairman. Officials are engaged in the packing of more than 8,000 files for shipment to Ottawa, and have nearly completed this work. Approximately 50 crates of files will be required to hold the papers which are being transferred to the National War Labor Board.

Plot By Nazi Officers Smashed

FRANKFURT, March 26—(AP)—Discovery and smashing of "another Nazi attempt to form a large scale organization" with the arrest of four former high officers in the notorious S.A. storm troops, was announced today by the United States Army.

A NETWORK of secret leaders in many German cities was formed by the group "to attempt to overthrow the present civil government in Germany and to act against the occupying powers by means of wholesale sabotage," a headquarters announcement said.

The officers under arrest—Major Gen. Wilhelm Dittler, Brig-Gen. Albert Wiczonke, Col. Ewald Bartel and Senior Col. Arno Scheffner—will go to trial before a military government court, April 7, charged with "acts hostile to the interests of the Allied forces."

Reject Demands

LONDON, March 26—(AP)—Yugoslavia has rejected British and United States demands that she give up 10 Italian merchant vessels seized as war prizes after the Allies signed the September, 1945, armistice with Italy, official sources said today.

Princess Margaret Has Slight Chill

ERMELO, Transvaal, March 26—(Reuters)—Princess Margaret Rose stayed in bed on the royal train today suffering from a slight chill and resting after the strain of the heavy program arranged for the royal family in Durban. Her condition is not serious. A mounted command of about 100 farmers as used by the Boers in the South African war rode out today to guide the royal family as their automobile entered Ermelo, first Transvaal town to be visited during the tour.

Plane Missing

BRISBANE, March 26—(Reuters)—A Dutch naval plane carrying seven passengers was reported today to be missing between Long Reach, Queensland, and Darwin on Australia's north coast. There are fears that it may have crashed in heavy storms in the Long Reach area.

Going Tough, But Leaders Say She'll "Muddle Through"

Britain—Like Mark Twain—Thinks Reports Of Her Death are Being Greatly Exaggerated

Britons believe there is entirely too much bandying about the idea that "Britain is dying." One newspaper even prints a daily pickup from some American newspaper under the standing headline "today's requiem." British United Press sounded out the leading leaders on the question and their replies are in the following dispatch.—Editor.

By Rob Roy Buckingham

LONDON, March 26, (BU-P)—Britain—like Mark Twain—thinks reports of her death are greatly exaggerated.

Things are tough in Piccadilly, but it's still "chin up and white tie for dinner."

Herman Goering's Funds Are Seized

LONDON, March 26—(Reuters)—Bank balances and securities worth 4,000,000 Reichmarks (about $400,000 at occupation rates) belonging to Herman Goering, who committed suicide before the Nuremberg war criminal hangings last year, have been seized in the British zone of Germany, it was announced in the Commons today.

From Prime Minister Clement Attlee on down—believe the country will "muddle through" to survive prophets of her collapse. Prominent Britons rallied round in the following manner to comment on the so called failing twilight of the Empire.

Prime Minister, Attlee—"we shall win the peace as we won the war. Britain has shown the world she can stand up to terrible odds. We will show the world today that British democracy can be self-disciplined and team-spirited overcome our economic troubles and move on to better times for all."

HUGH DALTON, chancellor of the exchequer—"We shall blow these defeatists sky high...there are dingy minds and dusty souls and jealous hearts who grudge Britain the future...we shall achieve great triumphs in the future, as great as any in the past."

Konni Zilliacus, Labor leftist in Commons—"Tory England is dying and imperialism in the Far East is dying but the British people are very much alive and there is more heart and spirit and determination in the British worker than in the dreary years of hopelessness and endless unemployment between the wars."

"Things," Zilliacus said, "are going to get a lot tougher before they start getting better...we have a long row to hoe."

J. B. PRIESTLY, author—"to say that Britain is dying seems to me to misuse the language."

Lord Halifax, former ambassador to the United States—"I certainly do not agree with the thought...widely distributed in the United

"Devil Ritual" Ends in Court

VANCOUVER, March 26 (CP)—A "devil-exorcising" ritual, in which water, eggs, human hair and money were used as charms, was described in police court yesterday when Mrs. Mary Mitchell, 66-year-old gypsy, pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

DETECTIVE A. Plummer told the court that Mrs. Axana Ewaniuk, complainant, had visited the gypsy woman repeatedly, and had paid her $108 to have devils charmed away and have her fortune told. Glasses of water, chicken's eggs and the complainant's hair played parts in the ritual, he said.

The complaint was lodged after $100 was allegedly burned in the "devil chase," but it is suspected that a piece of rag was substituted for the one in which the money was wrapped.

Magistrate H. S. Wood adjourned the case until Wednesday.

New Expedition to South Africa

"Missing Link" Hunt on Again

By PAUL F. ELLIS
NEW YORK, March 26 (BUP)—American paleontologists are getting ready to go on a new, big-time expedition to South Africa in a search for the "missing link" in the evolution of man.

THIS EXPEDITION, sponsored by several universities and some industrial firms, is expected to concentrate in the area of Sterkfontein and Kromdraai where some pre-historic fossil material already has been found.

A debate is going on now whether this Sterkfontein fossil is old enough or has the right characteristics to have originally been part of creature closely related both to ape and man.

Wendell Phillips, of Concord, Calif., one of the leaders of the forthcoming expedition, recently returned from Africa where he made plans for the new search scheduled in July.

THE STERKFONTAIN fossil material includes parts of skulls, described by some British anthropologists as having slight modifications of the gorilla or chimpanzee and with others apparently closely related to man.

The bones and other material, found in 1938, show evidence that an "ape man" village may have been in existence with some experts placing the time at about 250,000 B.C. That, however, would be far too recent for the period when the "missing link" existed. Definite proof already has been established that man lived at least 500,000 years ago.

PHILLIPS SAID the new expedition will attempt to find new fossil material. He describes the forthcoming search as "America's largest expedition to Africa."

Dr. George von Koenigswald, of the staff of the American Museum of Natural History, who brought back the remains of a 500,000-year-old Java man last fall, is serving as an advisor to the expedition.

He does not believe, however, that the Sterkfontein "man" was the "missing link." He describes this fossil as a "mere youngster" and that the real missing link probably lived about 30,000,000 years ago.

The new expedition may go far toward settling the debate.

Says Ban on Reds Would Boomerang

WASHINGTON, March 26 (CP)—Outlawing of the Communist party would help and not hinder its growth in the United States, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor told a Congressional committee yesterday.

TO SUPPORT his contention, Green instanced Canada's action in 1940 when the Communist party was outlawed with 13 other political organizations. The Communists had re-formed under the Labor-Progressive party label and now has greater strength than it had under the original name, he said.

Canada had used restrictive legislation, Green said, but the Communists not only had been able to reappear under another name but also elected a member to the House of Commons.

Today, he said, "there is overwhelming evidence that the strength and organization of this new party (Labor-Progressive) is far greater than had ever been mastered by the Communist party before it was outlawed."

Ogopogo Back: Spring Is Here

PENTICTON, B.C., March 26 (CP)—Spring, and Ogopogo, have returned to interior British Columbia.

According to Indian legend, Ogopogo is a sea serpent living in Okanagan Lake and was frightening Indians before the white man first crossed the Rockies. Sunday, he turned up again.

ERIC BEARDMORE was returning by car from Naramata, B.C., when he noticed a disturbance in the calm water about a mile from shore. Stopping his car, Mr. Beardmore says he saw the monster, which had no definite shape at that distance, gambling in the deep.

Reliable sources have reported seeing Ogopogo many times and once, in 1937, two Vernon, B.C., men swore that their boat was bumped by the monster as "black coils whirled below the surface."

No one, however, has yet taken Ogo's picture.

Deny Blind Girl Eye of Thief

NEW YORK, March 26 (AP)—Judge Samuel Leibowitz ruled yesterday against an offer by Joseph Ross, convicted Brooklyn auto thief, to give up one of his eyes to a 14-year-old blind girl, and sentenced Ross to 2½ to five years in prison.

Before the judge ruled against Ross' offer, he heard the defendant's wife oppose the offer.

"To the little blind girl it might mean a great deal," she said. "But he's my husband. He has such beautiful eyes. My answer is no, your honor."

Judge Leibowitz said that "having heard all parties . . . I am convinced that this man is not sincere and that he has sought to evade the just penalty for his deeds by an attempt to play on human sympathies."

Moscow Meeting May End in April

By ROSS MUNRO

MOSCOW, March 26 (CP)—There was speculation today that the foreign ministers conference may conclude about mid-April but there has been no official word as yet on any deadline. By that time it may be possible for the ministers to have agreed on new directives for the allied control council in Berlin and to have laid down the main principles on which the foreign ministers' deputies and conference committees can go to work on drafting a peace settlement.

Too Prevalent

The great majority of serious-minded people will agree with the stand of Premier Manning on the proposal to permit "mixed drinking" in beer parlors in Edmonton and Calgary. This was permitted in the earlier days but was abolished about twenty years ago. The reasons for banning the arrangement are as valid now as they were then. They are sufficiently obvious without elaboration.

The premier is right when he says people would be better off "socially, economically and morally" if there was less consumption of liquor, and that what the situation calls for is closer restriction rather than a relaxing of the restrictions now in force.

The appalling increase in liquor consumption all across Canada is something that Canadians should be thinking about. This trend is not more marked in Alberta than in most or all other provinces. But neither is it less noticeable here than elsewhere, and the aim should be to discourage, not encourage, the spread of the practice.

No Legal Barrier

The members of the provincial legislature rejected two motions which proposed that the legal work week in Alberta be cut to something less than 48 hours. That anyone really expected either motion to pass is hard to imagine.

More than half of the people of this province live on farms. To put farming on a basis of a 40 hour week, or even a 44 hour week, would involve a revolution in farm practice which farmers are unanimous in saying they could not afford. Their testimony is that farm revenue is not large enough to permit them to hire the extra labor that would be required to operate on a shorter work week.

That farmer members of the legislature would order themselves to do what they say would ruin them was not to be supposed. That they would prescribe a shorter work week for those who already work shorter hours than they do could hardly seem likely. The farmers have already gone a good way in legislating more leisure time for others than they themselves do or can enjoy. To ask them to go farther was asking too much of the farmer members.

This does not mean that everyone in Alberta must work 48 hours per week. A considerable proportion of the population already work a shorter week, by negotiated agreements between employers and employees. There is no legal bar to similar agreements being negotiated in other lines of occupation. All the legislature did was refuse to make it illegal to work a 48 hour week.

"Colonies" in Canada

A delegation of Hutterites has waited upon the provincial government to protest against the proposal that restriction should be maintained against the ownership of Alberta land by members of this sect.

This delegation pointed out that the Hutterites came to Canada in 1918 "hoping to find sanctuary and to be allowed to live, work and worship as we please within the framework of Canada's laws."

In this understanding, these people formed themselves into what they style "colonies" and live isolated lives, perpetuating their group traditions and making no effort whatsoever to merge themselves into the national life of Canada.

With their demand that they be allowed to worship as they please, most Canadians will of course be in full sympathy.

But with their demand to live as they please, no Canadian interested in the welfare and national unity of this country can agree.

It is probably well within "the framework of Canada's laws" that Hutterites and other racial groups should cluster in colonies and live their traditional lives quite isolated from the rest of the Canadian people. That is to say, there is probably no Canadian law that prohibits this.

But it is high time there was a Canadian law to forbid it. No mode of life that permits aliens to live apart, ignorant of Canadian traditions, isolated from the national life stream, scorning the Canadian language and perpetuating alien customs, is tolerable to the majority of the Canadian people.

It is to eject such dangerous and mischievous practices from the "framework of Canada's laws" that Alberta has prohibited the purchase of land by Hutterites. That prohibition, under the circumstances and for this purpose, is perfectly proper. It is highly commendable.

Anything that will break up isolated colonies and force aliens to become real Canadians is commendable.

Any group have a good deal of what is commonly called "gall" to ask for the privilege of creating little foreign settlements on Canadian soil.

Protection for the Victim

The bill which was introduced in the provincial legislature on Monday is not a compulsory insurance measure. It does not require the owner of a motor car to carry insurance against damage claims which may fall upon him should he be responsible for an accident. It is left to his discretion whether he will buy such insurance or carry the liability himself.

It is the prospective victim, not the car owner or driver, who is to be insured. The plan is that the victim shall not have to pay his hospital bills and other expenses. If the party responsible can pay, he will have to pay. If he cannot pay, the damage claims will be met from a special fund, to which all motorists will contribute one dollar per year. Only in that sense does the bill involve compulsory insurance.

But while the motorist is free to carry an insurance policy or not do so, it will be very much to his advantage to provide this protection for himself. For should he be held responsible for an accident his driver's license will be forfeit and his assets become liable to seizure. Should the assets fail to meet the claims he will not be able to secure another license until he has recouped the insurance fund with interest at four per cent. The argument for carrying an insurance policy is thus strong.

This plan of safeguarding the victim, rather than compelling the motorist to carry insurance, has much to recommend it. It is the injured person who needs protection. He always needs it, for medical and other expenses have to be met. The party responsible may not need insurance protection; he may have assets to cover any damage claims. Of that he is left to be the judge.

Not many owners of cars or trucks are likely to object to paying an extra dollar for a license, considering the object in view. And considering also that if the assets of a motorist are seized to meet damage claims this will be done under the provisions of the Exemption Act. Under these provisions a car could not be seized if the owner uses it to earn a living, and a farmer would be immune in respect to his land, a fair amount of stock and seed grain.

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE

by Webster

Britain Not Finished

BY ELMORE PHILPOTT

Those who are shouting from the housetops that Britain is all through are due for a rude awakening. Britain is not finished. The best age of British life still lies ahead.

Those who falsely conclude that Britain is all washed up confuse the score card in the dying game of power politics with future human welfare.

BRITAIN has clearly lost out in the race of power politics. Even at the San Francisco Conference some Scottish wits in the British delegation were poking fun at their own decline in power—as measured by that of the U.S. and Russia—by wisecracking about "The Big 24."

But brute power politics is not necessarily going to shape the future world. Indeed, the very fact that Britain is so on the spot may compel her to do the very thing that will not only save her—but once again save all humanity.

True, nothing can save the British Empire if world war three comes. That is far more than a matter of size and location of the little heart of the Empire—which could be atomized overnight. It is that the imperial-colonial relationship would make what remains of the subject British Empire as inflammable as a dry forest in mid-summer, with a strong wind blowing.

I HAD A FRIEND in the first world war who won a coveted medal for bravery. He told me, in all earnestness: "I never planned to be a hero. There seemed to be hundreds of shells exploding behind me—scores right around me—but not so many on ahead. I went on and found myself first to reach the ridge."

When the British face the fact that it is less dangerous to go forward than to stand still—and suicidal to try to go back—they will supply what has so far been lacking in the United Nations; some power working heart and soul for the world organization and its aims. Instead of just working for itself in it.

THERE ARE TWO British peoples; what you might call the democrats and the die-hards.

It is the democratic strain in British life that gave mankind the Magna Carta, the Bill of Rights, rule by parliament. The British people won freedom of religion, freedom of expression, freedom of political action; but never once without a fight. In every big fight they were bitterly opposed by the ruling class in their own nation. This ruling class—which we can call "die-hards"—opposed every advance the democrats made. Their motto was all down through the centuries, "What we have we hold."

When they lost their hold on their own people—they simply shifted their grip to other peoples overseas. When they lost the American colonies they changed their tactics—but not their objectives. They are the most masterly retreaters in all history. They always give way in the nick of time; not just to save their necks, but to keep the juiciest paying jobs in the family.

AMERICANS are wrong in thinking that either kind of Britain is through. The British imperialists—unlike the British democrats—have never repented of the iniquity of imperialism. While the vast majority of citizens of England, Scotland, and Wales are glad that their government is keeping its pledges and giving India freedom—the resentful die-hards are simply shifting their operations.

Africa and Malay are to be the new fields of exploitation. Meanwhile, they gloat with glee because they imagine, foolishly, that President Truman's decision to move into Greece or Turkey puts American soldiers in the front line protecting their interests, rather than British in the front lines protecting America.

The Wheat Conference

BY FRANK B. WALKER

One delegate to the international wheat conference in London is offering three to one odds that "an agreement will be signed." But he specifies "an agreement" and not "the agreement."

In brief, this is the attitude of the conference. No delegate to whom this correspondent has spoken believes the proposed international wheat agreement will go through as it stands. The difficulties are too formidable. What they do believe, however, is that an agreement, or series of agreements, may be concluded.

The pre-conference atmosphere was not optimistic. Once again the unknown quantity is the attitude of the United States' congress. And without the United States the plan, as it presently is, can hardly go through.

Countering this, though not offsetting it, is the high degree of agreement among the nations represented on the international wheat council. This agreement extends to the majority of the 35 nations now represented in London.

THE PROBLEMS confronting the conference can roughly be divided into three groups.

First, there is the rather general doubt as to the response of the United States; secondly, there exists a fear that an agreement of this type will discourage production at a time when the greatest possible production is needed; and thirdly, there is a feeling that the present shortage is not the most suitable time to conclude such a project.

The first difficulty, that of the United States, is largely a matter of home politics and is not beyond a solution. Even the present wide difference between the suggested maximum price of $135, as laid down in the proposals and the United States price per bushel can easily be offset by an export subsidy and it is now generally agreed that such a subsidy would not conflict with the conditions laid down in the charter of the international trade organization.

ON THE SECOND question there is considerable difference of opinion. The world food shortage this year will be nearly as great as last year.

If pessimistic forecasts turn out to be correct, then both this year and next will see the need for the greatest possible wheat production. It is open to question whether the proposed agreement, with its narrow price range, provides the incentive.

The third basic difficulty is one again on which opinion varies. Some delegates would prefer to see the conference delayed until the conditions of supply and demand are more normal. Others feel that the present abnormal period has highlighted for both the producer and the consumer the importance of stable production and adequate supplies.

Both exporting and importing countries would maintain maximum and minimum reserves.

Within this broad outline there is much scope for revision. In fact the refusal of Argentina to participate, other than as an observer at the conference, offers the first and probably the most important ground for revision. It was the defection of Argentina that wrecked the first wheat agreement in 1933-34.

Mr. Andrew Merkel, the genial ex-superintendent of the CP in the Maritime, in the course of reminiscences contributed to the Halifax Herald tells this one.

Shortly after Premier Gordon Harrington's defeat in the Nova Scotia election of 1933, he was summoned to Ottawa to interview the great R. B. Bennett. It had been suggested he should take over the chairmanship of the Railway Commission, a non-political office for which he was eminently qualified. But he did not see R. B.; who had his secretary explain he had broken his appointment in order to journey to Sciencetady, N.Y. there to receive an honorary degree at the hands of Frank Parker Day, a former Rhodes scholar from Mount Allison University. Further he wished to convey the Prime Minister's apologies and to say he would be glad to see him the following week.

Well, Harrington returned to the Chateau Laurier, sat around for a few hours and decided he had waited long enough. So he waved a cheery goodbye to the chairmanship of the Railway Commission and boarded a train for Halifax. Later he was appointed to the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

End of a Church Age

Anglican Outlook

Those of us who live on this American continent may find it hard to realize that we are at the end of an age as far as the church is concerned, because we are not close enough to the cradle of western Christendom. We are apt to ignore the facts—for example, that 20 percent of the votes cast by the Italian people were for Communist and 40 percent for Socialist candidates in the 1946 general election, despite the fact that Rome is the historic seat of the Papacy, the avowed enemy of Communism. The world is at grips with the problems of collectivism, but the church at large is studiously neglecting to face up to the economic and political changes that are coming. The church is still far too concerned with individual salvation only, a "hang-over" from our 19th century environment.

It Was Electioneering

Halifax Herald

American writers say the British Foreign Secretary "blundered" when he detected a color of politics in President Truman's statement about immigration to Palestine, and said so.

As perhaps he did—but the "blunder" cannot be charged to inaccuracy.

One of Mr. Truman's defenders admits that the statement of October last "smacked of electioneering." It was electioneering. The fact that it had been made on previous occasions does not alter either its intent or its character.

Keeping Our End Up

BY HARPER PROWSE, MLA

It is easy for us, as taxpayers, to fall for the argument that we could save ourselves a lot of money by abolishing our navy, army and air force and the department of national defence. The question which follows is "Can Canada afford to neglect her defence in this unsettled post-war world?" I don't think we can.

In the first place I don't think that anybody in his right senses would suggest that so long as Russia maintains her armed forces the United States would dare to scuttle the American Navy, disband the American Army and junk the American Air Force. Russia is tough enough even as it is and I don't think it is unfair to suggest that should this happen Russia would take over Europe, lock, stock and barrel, make China a Russian province and start right in letting us know what we could and could not do.

And I think it is equally obvious that if Canada decided that she was unable to provide even a token defence force the United States would, for her own protection, demand and get bases for the various arms of her defence force in Canada. In other words we would become—as we probably are to a limited extent now—a protectorate of the United States.

CANADIANS are a proud people—probably as proud a people as are to be found on the face of this globe. And I doubt very much whether any of us would be able to survive the blow to our pride which would follow the surrender of our duty to protect ourselves to a foreign power—no matter how friendly it might be. And having accepted the responsibility of defending us there is no doubt but that the Americans would not be slow to despise us and to consider us as an inferior people. This would be a natural and normal development.

Therefore to talk of "national prestige" is not to talk nonsense. It is to talk of something which, while difficult to define in exact terms, is something real. For national prestige refers not only to what people in other nations think of us, but, what is more important, what we think of ourselves. It is largely a question of self-respect, and I doubt whether we could retain our national self-respect if we were to surrender to the Americans the whole duty of protecting Canada from attack. And a nation which has lost its self-respect is just as despicable as a man who loses his.

THEREFORE it is imperative that Canadians should not be lulled into this false and contemptible position by the hope of saving a few dollars on our income tax. Rather than accept this shameful outlook we should be carefully considering ways and means, within the limits of our ability, of accepting our fair share in defending our rights to the riches we hold, and planning through our international organization, the United Nations, to bring about the day when all nations can disarm safely, be destroyed when we insisted on governing ourselves.

The Fashion in Ideas

BY BRUCE HUTCHISON

In the storm of our time an interesting fallacy has been washed up on the beach.

This strange bit of flotsam floated into the British parliament a few weeks ago. There it was argued by certain prophets that Britain should socialize her transport system because most of the world was doing so. There may be compelling reasons for the socialization of transport, but one can think of no worse reason than this. Indeed, looking back over the last twenty-five years, one could almost be sure that, by rejecting every policy followed by the world at large, one would inevitably do the right thing.

Britain's salvation may lie in socialism. I do not know. But Britain became great because it refused to accept the current political and economic fashions of the world. It cut off its own king's head at a time when kings were fashionable, when the rest of the world could hardly conceive of a state without a monarch.

Britain's refusal to observe the current fashion worked out pretty well. It made her the first free nation. It made her the first great industrial nation. It made her the saviour of the western civilization—simply because she put her own judgment above the current whims of mankind. Now Britain is asked—as we are asked in Canada—to accept state control of everything because the state controls everything over most of the face of the earth.

If we bring the current reasoning close to home, here in Canada, we shall see its falsity at once. If Canada has achieved anything—and its achievement as a nation is unique in its circumstances—everything of importance has been accomplished simply because we refused to accept the advice of our elders and betters.

According to the political and economic fashions of the world, according to all the accepted laws of life, this could never have been a nation in the first place. Looking at our divided races, any statesman could have seen that. Looking at our vast and disjointed sweep of territory any economist could have told us, and many did, that it was impossible to create a single economy in Canada. Looking at our position in America, a fragment of people perpetually pulled by the great magnet of the United States, any foreigner could have foretold our absorption by our neighbor, just as any fashionable thinker would have said that the British family of nations would be destroyed when we insisted on governing ourselves.

By every fashionable theory Canada cannot exist. By the most popular economic philosophy of our time the all-powerful and all-wise state, Canada cannot prosper. By the law prevailing over most of the earth Canadians cannot hope and should not want to be free. But we seem to exist, our living standards are higher than anyone else's except the Americans', and we are among the few free, truly free people, left anywhere. Alas, however, we are not fashionable.

Today England is in rebellion against its own past. To say that the world follows it in one form or another is to slander the English people. They are developing their own system to meet their own circumstances and that is exclusively their own business. To say that we must imitate them, or imitate the fashion elsewhere, is to deny us the freedom of choice which England rightly claims. If, as our Canadian socialists are never tired of telling us, England has found the sure road to happiness, it does not follow that this is the best road for a North American people living under entirely different conditions. And it is by no means certain that this is even the right road for England.

LONDON, March 26. (Reuters)—Prime Minister Attlee announced in the House of Commons today establishment of a royal commission to inquire into the British press. It will be headed by Sir David Ross, former member of various textile and trade committees.

ATTLEE SAID the object of the commission would be to further the free expression of opinion through the press and the greatest practicable accuracy in the presentation of the news.

It would inquire into the control, management and ownership of the newspaper, the periodical press and the news agencies, including their financial structure and monopoly tendencies in their control, and will make recommendations.

Ross has headed several commissions of inquiry. He is 69, the head of Oriel College, Oxford, and a member of the national arbitration tribunal set up in 1940 to handle trades disputes.

May Probe Power Of Wheat Board

OTTAWA, March 26. (CP)—Senator Salter Hayden (L-Ontario) called in the Senate last night for a full committee study of the sometimes "broad and unlimited" powers given the Federal Wheat Board as the sole marketing agency for wheat and other grain products.

ENTERING THE debate on a Commons-approved bill to continue the board's wartime powers, the Toronto lawyer said facts divulged in committee might convince him that "nationalization" of wheat was the most proper way to handle it under existing circumstances. But he thought a thorough study should be made.

Senator F. W. Gershaw (L-Alberta) said the four-year British wheat agreement would be "a very good agreement" if world prices sagged in that time — "and this seems very likely." He was sure Britain would survive her economic woes and live up to the bargain she had made.

SENATOR HAYDEN said he wasn't satisfied that the bill encompassed the best method for handling the agreement. In effect, "it is a nationalization of the wheat business in Canada."

Senator Gershaw said Western farmers were disturbed about price conditions now. The migration from the farms and the recent "strongly supported" non-delivery strike in Alberta were manifestations of this feeling.

The striking farmers had asked parity prices to equalize their position with those of other parts of the national economy. They felt, in short, that they weren't getting a fair share of the national income.

Sask. Proposes 44-Hour Week

REGINA, March 26. (CP)—A forty-four-hour week, with a basic eight-hour day was proposed by the CCF government in a new hours of work bill before the Saskatchewan Legislature yesterday.

THE BILL WOULD apply to employees within a five-mile radius of any city, factory workers and to employees coming under the Minimum Wage Act which now provides for a 48-hour week.

Agricultural workers, domestics, caretakers, travelling salesmen, those employed solely in managerial capacities and fire department employees would be excluded from provisions of the bill.

The bill, expected to provoke debate during committee discussion, is ready for second reading.

It provides that employers will pay time and one-half if employees work more than eight hours in one day and more than 44 hours in one week. Time off for meals is not included in the eight-hour day.

Plan Renew Fight Daylight Saving

The fight for daylight saving time in both Edmonton and Calgary will be carried on to the floor of the legislature according to Mayor Harry Ainlay, and stated by him to aldermen at Monday night's city council meeting.

HE TOLD aldermen he had been informed that the sponsor of the motion in the municipal law committee, that would deprive Calgary of its charter power to institute daylight saving, would seek the withdrawal of this motion.

He said also that N. B. James, Edmonton member of the Legislature who is sponsoring the Edmonton charter amendments, would lead a fight to have the power granted to this city.

Mayor Ainlay said that if the Legislature did not grant the city power to institute daylight saving it was possible that the course followed by the city of Toronto could be adopted here.

IN THAT CITY, Mayor Ainlay said, the mayor proclaims that daylight saving time will be instituted between certain dates, and the citizens obey the proclamation. The city has no charter powers to adopt daylight saving, he reported.

Whether or not citizens here would follow the example of Toronto residents was not known, he said, adding that there was no serious opposition to daylight saving time from Edmonton business places although there was considerable opposition to the proposal to request these places to close one hour earlier unless the clocks also were advanced.

Justice Minister Ilsley Under Fire in House

OTTAWA, March 26. (CP)—The views Justice Minister Ilsley expressed last week on the powers of the Dominion government in provincial fields in peace-time brought further repercussions in the Commons yesterday as members advanced by one stage the passage of legislation extending the power to continue controls for another year.

SPEAKING BEFORE members began study of the control bill resolution in committee of the whole, John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) charged that Mr. Ilsley had preached a dangerous doctrine, which, if applied by any government, would destroy the rights of the provinces.

He was referring to Mr. Ilsley's statement that the Canada Temperance Act case would indicate that the dominion may have the power "even when there is no emergency" to legislate for peace, order and good government, "even though its legislation touches on matters ordinarily regarded as solely within provincial jurisdiction."

MR. ILSLEY, having already spoken in the debate, was barred by house rules from making an immediate reply to Mr. Diefenbaker. However, he made no move to reply after members voted 180-6 to go into committee on the resolution.

While under Mr. Diefenbaker's fire, Mr. Ilsley interjected that the member was talking "nonsense" and asked him not to "twist things."

To Test Process Making Gasoline

PITTSBURGH, March 26. (AP)—A $120,000,000 project which conceivably can ensure the United States an adequate gasoline reserve for more than 3,000 years through coal synthesis, was announced yesterday by the world's largest commercial coal producer.

THE PROJECT will start in a $300,000 "pilot plant" to be constructed near Library, Pa., where Pittsburgh Consolidation has extensive holdings. If its operations prove coal synthesis for gasoline and gas commercially practical, a huge plant will be built at a cost estimated at $120,000,000 or more. Construction of this plant would be started by the end of 1949 with commercial production foreseen for 1951.

RAW COAL FOR the project—which in its commercial form will consume 6,000,000 tons annually—will be drawn from Pittsburgh Consolidation's 100,000 acres of coal lands in Western Pennsylvania. The coal will pour into the new of giant converters at an estimated rate of 20,000 tons daily.

Death Sentences

FRANKFURT, March 26. (Reuters)—Two death sentences were passed by the German court trying doctors, nurses and employees of the Hadamar Mental hospital on charges of the "Euthanasia murder" of hundreds of inmates, the German news service in the American zone reported. Nine defendants received sentences ranging from eight to 2 1/2 years.

Deathbed Bequest Is Fulfilled

Bread Dole Averts Ancient Curse

By STUART UNDERHILL
ALRESFORD, Hampshire, England, March 26. (CP)—Lady Mabel de Tichborne can rest easy in her grave today. An ancient custom she inspired 800 years ago—distribution of bread to the poor each lady day—has been fulfilled and there is no need to invoke her solemn curse.

ONCE BEFORE her charitable deathbed bequest was disregarded and disaster overtook the Tichborne family, legend says. But repudiation of this was avoided yesterday when hundreds of Britons sacrificed bread coupons required for flour and permitted the centuries-old ceremony to proceed.

Precious sacks of flour were dumped into an oaken chest on the steps of Tichborne House, blessed by the Roman Catholic Bishop of Portsmouth, and ladled out in half-gallon quantities to neighboring villagers who collected their annual gift in pillow-cases.

THE FOOD MINISTRY had refused a special issue of bread units, which must be surrendered for all bread and flour consumed, but the public donated sufficient from their personal rations. Even this was illegal but the ministry winked at the transaction in this case.

The custom goes back to 1150 when Lady Mabel, from her deathbed, bequeathed her husband to give from his crops to the poor. He promised to give the yield from whatever land she could encompass, at which she rose and crawled around 23 acres.

LEGEND SAYS she told her husband that if he failed to give the dote yearly, seven sons would be born to the house, followed by a generation of seven daughters, and then the ancient name of Tichborne would die and the manor house would fall.

The custom of doting out the bread was carried out for 844 years and then suspended by magistrate's order. The curse was immediately felt. Sir Henry Tichborne had seven sons, the house fell down, and seven daughters were born to the heir. Sir Henry's third son changed his name and reinstituted this bread dote. Since then all has been well.

The first straw hats probably were worn by the Romans.

SPORTS

HAROLD DEAN, Sports Editor

JUNIOR "A" HOCKEY IN WESTERN CANADA next season is likely to find this year's top teams all back again. Winnipeg Monarchs had a young club and Lethbridge Native Sons expect to lose only a few players.

Moose Jaw Canucks, of course, will be without their dynamic Metro Prystai who seems to be carrying most of the load, and Regina Pats having come close and received good home support, will be endeavoring to go further.

Edmonton Canadians will have to do considerable rebuilding, but have a start in Johnny Sotiak, Bob Gray, Eddie Thomas and Bob Goodacre, with promising material in sight. Canadian Athletic Club finances must have received a severe jolt this year, but indications are that Canadians will return with a good junior "A" contender.

Brandon Elks, now waiting for the western junior final series with Moose Jaw, already are planning for next season and even have attempted to lure Roy McMeekin away from the Monarchs by dangling an offer of $250 per for the six winter months as bait to hook the Winnipeg goalie.

Dick Butler Finishes Fifth

DICK BUTLER, FORMER DIPS DOODLING left winger for Moose Jaw Canucks who has been with Kansas City all season, finished the United States Hockey League schedule tied for fifth place in the scoring with 61 points, only 15 away from the leading Don Morrison of Omaha. Dick led all players who started the season with the club. Ray Powell, who was later acquired from Omaha being the only Pla-Mor to outscore him.

That co-operative project commenced by Winnipeg Flyers last fall has worked out very nicely so far in winning games. And the boys also stand to make a tidy little profit for themselves as the team has drawn fairly well all year and is now out in the western final and thus eligible for any dividend which the CAHA may declare at the conclusion of the Allan Cup playoffs.

Fort William, heretofore without a rink and being forced to use the Port Arthur arena, is planning a new Community Centre to cost $400,000 and it will include an artificial ice surface which is to be ready for the 1948-49 season.

Boston Bruins Heaviest

WITH AN AVERAGE WEIGHT PER MAN of 179 pounds, the Boston Bruins are the heaviest team in the National Hockey League. Detroit Red Wings are the second huskiest with an overall average of 178 pounds, Toronto Maple Leafs being next with 177, followed by Rangers, 175. Chicago Black Hawks average 174 and the Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens are the lightest at 170 pounds.

Babe Pratt, now in the American League, stands six feet, 3 inches and Babe is believed to be the tallest to ever perform in the NHL. The player built closest to the ice is Grant (Knobby) Warwick, the N.Y. Rangers right-winger, who is 5 feet, 5 1/2 inches, and is thought to be the smallest to appear in an NHL uniform.

Jim Hendy, director of the American Hockey League's service bureau, tells this one:

The irrepressible Charles "Rabbit" McVeigh (whom many Edmonton fans will remember) is very hard of hearing, the result of wounds suffered in the First World War. He was walking down Eighth Avenue in New York recently with Referee Bernie LeMaire, who had raised his voice to the volume of a shout and saying: "Now look, Rabbit..." A somewhat seedy looking dapper in a ratty coat happened to be abreast of them and heard only the word "rabbit." She immediately came to the wrong conclusion, jumped in front of the amazed McVeigh and LeMaire and yelled: Rabbit my eye, its mine!

Hershey Defeats Barons 4 Straight

HERSHEY, Pa., March 26 (CP)—The powerful Hershey Bears captured the first-place American Hockey League's divisional playoffs in four straight games last night when they shut out Cleveland Barons 9-0. In sweeping best-of-seven series the Bears earned the right to meet the winner of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo semi-final playoffs for the Calder Cup, emblematic of the AHL championship.

Walter (Babe) Pratt paced the Bears with three goals. Johnny Pierson added two and Cain, Grandadahl, Mario and Rozzi added singles.

Receive Salaries Without Playing

SAN FRANCISCO, March 26 (AP)—The San Francisco Pacific Coast League baseball club Tuesday paid the 1946 salaries and pennant-winning shares of two men who did not play with the club but who contended they were entitled to which they were entitled under the GI Bill of Rights.

The Seals' secretary, Charles Graham, Jr., handed a cheque for $3,334 to Wallace Carroll of Los Angeles and for $3,184 to Henry Steinbacher, of Sacramento. Both were outfielders.

A court decision recently upheld Carroll's claim. Steinbacher's claim was paid without reaching court.

Hopes for Decline In Boxing Fatalities

NEW YORK, March 26, (AP)—The fight game's bible—the Ring Record Book—came off the presses Tuesday listing the histories of some 4,000 fighters, and publisher Nat Fleischer believes it may hold a possible answer to the sudden rise in boxing fatalities last year.

The 688 pages of this 1946 edition have the usual "dis-a-and data" of Bash Boulevard, such as the fact that, just as in the phone book, the Smiths head the "name" list with 47 fighters; that Joe Louis' ring earnings now stand at $326,073, compared to Jack Dempsey's $1,221,320; that Jess Willard was the tallest champion (6-foot-6 1/2) and Primo Carnera the heaviest (267 pounds) and that there have been eight gates of more than $1,000,000.

BUT ASIDE FROM those statistics, Fleischer points to the book's records of 3,397 fighters in North and South America and 577 in Britain, New Zealand, Africa and continental Europe to show how many fighters are "permitted by boxing commissions and boards to go on long time after time being beaten or knocked out, and still retain licenses to box."

The book shows that in 1946 there were 17 fatalities in the ring throughout the world—11 of them in the United States—and nearly 100 injuries. There already have been three 1947 ring deaths, Fleischer asserted.

"THE RECORDS OF many fighters show why," Ring magazine editor Fleischer insisted Tuesday. "For instance, more than 200 active fighters have been defeated in more than 90 per cent of their bouts. In many cases, the records show that of 25 or 30 fights, a fighter may have won one, or finished in a draw in one, and been knocked out in all the rest."

"This indicates, in most cases, a lack of proper supervision by the boxing boards or commissions... as fighters pile up losing streaks, their licenses should be taken away."

Jockey Injured; Horse Killed

HOT SPRING, Ark., March 26 (AP)—Jockey H. Manifold was injured and his mount, Man O'Mine, was killed in a bad split in the seventh race at Oaklawn Park Tuesday.

Man O'Mine, a six-year-old gelding owned by Mrs. R. Dollaway, fell during the crowding at the first turn of the mile and 70-yard race and somersaulted upon Manifold. The horse, apparently with a broken neck, died on the track. Manifold was taken to hospital. After treatment for minor injuries, Manifold was released.

Kansas City Ousts Minneapolis, 4-2

MINNEAPOLIS, March 26 (CP)—Kansas City Pla-mors reached the United States Hockey League semi-finals last night by ousting Minneapolis Millers from the playoffs with a 4-2 victory that swept their best-of-five series. Harry Dick counted twice for the winners with Johnson and Blade getting the others. Strobel and Forgie counted for the losers.

Canadiens Triumph In Closing Drive

Beat Boston 3-1 In Stanley Cup Semi-Final Test

MONTREAL, March 26, (CP)—Exploding for a pair of opportunity goals by Jimmy Peters and Johnny Quilty in the last eight minutes of a close checking, tightly played contest, Montreal Canadiens defeated Boston Bruins 3-1 last night before a crowd of 10,909 in the first game of their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final.

Up to those last eight minutes, there was little to thrill the small play-off crowd as both teams played it close after each notched a goal in the first six minutes.

KENNY SMITH had sent Bruins into a lead at the 2:30 mark of the first period when he pounced on Terry Reardon's net-mouth pass. Toe Blake evened it up at 5:38 as Bruins left the puck lying in the corner for Maurice Richard who relayed it through Quilty to Blake.

With the minutes ticking off in the third period and the fans envisioning another overtime marathon—the two squads played three extra games in the last spring—Peters took advantage of another Bruin lapse to give the winners the margin they needed.

KENNY MOSDELL carried across the Boston blueline, was checked hard by Clarence Martin and the puck rolled to the corner, coming down the right boards like a streak, grabbed it and roared in on Frankie Brimsek unchecked to beat him cleanly.

Then Quilty clinched it as Canadiens laid back and waited for the breaks. Rocket Richard raced in on a breakaway, sized one at Brimsek, and Quilty was Johnny-on-the-spot as he skidded in and banged home the rebound.

The husky Ottawa boy, called up from Springfield Indians of the American Hockey League at the tail end of the regular season was used most of the game between Richard and Blake, and showed flashes of the form that won him the Calder rookie award in 1940-41 before he went into the armed services.

THAT HELPED Canadiens over the tough spot they were in entering the semi-final without their star centre Elmer Lach, and pivotman Buddy O'Connor, both out with injuries.

Only six penalties were handed out by referee King Clancy, although there was plenty of slambang and hard bumping.

The teams meet here again Thursday night and then move on to Boston for games Saturday and next Tuesday.

Portland Again Leads Close Coast Playoff

PORTLAND, Ore., March 26, (AP)—Portland Eagles moved one game ahead of Seattle Ironmen in their nip-and-tuck playoff series in the northern division of the Pacific Coast Hockey League with a 5-0 victory last night.

Deadlocked before the match at two games apiece, the series could end tonight with a Portland victory at Seattle. A Seattle win would necessitate a final game here Friday.

The Eagles lost little time seizing the advantage last night. The first time Seattle was a man short through a penalty, Portland unleashed a three-man offensive for a score, John Gauthier snapping the puck home at 9:38 of the first period. Within two minutes Jim Planché of the Eagles added another counter.

That ended the scoring until two action-filled minutes of the final period, when Gauthier, Jack McDonald and Joe Schmidt all tallied to sew up the contest.

Hunting Is Over For Max Bentley

MONTREAL, March 26, (CP)—The hunting season is over for Max Bentley of Chicago Black Hawks, who moved into the top spot in the National Hockey League scoring column two weeks ago, replacing Montreal's Maurice (Rocket) Richard who held the upper hand in the point collecting department for most of the 60-game schedule.

The shifty Chicago forward, captured his second straight scoring championship after staging a close neck-and-neck battle with Richard that drew more interest from hockey fans than the actual outcome of the year's standing. Bentley, who played in 60 games, ended the season with 29 goals and 43 assists for 72 points to beat Richard in the photo-finish by one point, it was revealed today in the official league statistics.

RICHARD in 60 games captured the goal scoring championship with 45—an increase of 18 over last season—and he garnered 26 assists for a total collection of 71 points. In third place, eight points behind Richard, is Billy (The Kid) Taylor of Detroit Red Wings with 63 points made up of 17 goals and 46 assists.

Gus Mortson of Toronto Leafs and rookie defenceman was the league's villain with 133 minutes spent in the penalty box. Toronto to hold the dubious distinction of leading in team penalties with 671 minutes spent in the "sin bin".

GOALING HONORS fell to Bill Durnan who made hockey history by capturing the Vezina trophy for the fourth consecutive season. The Canadiens' netminder had 138 goals scored against him in 60 games for an average of 2.30.

Iris Hegerman, of the league-leading Wolves, today is paces the City Junior Girls' Basketball League scoring race with a total of 24 points, garnered in four games, according to statistics released by league director Clare Hollingsworth.

THE LEAGUE WILL continue Thursday at the McDougall school gym with a doubleheader. Wolves will meet Bears in the first game, starting at 7:15 o'clock and Tigers will play the Lions in the second contest.

Smythe Not Worried About Meeting Wings

TORONTO, March 26, (CP)—The coaching skill of Clarence (Hap) Day has set at rest Conny Smythe's usual pre-series jitters on the eve of the best-of-seven Stanley Cup semi-final between his Maple Leafs and Detroit Red Wings.

"No coach knows more about playing the Wings than Hap," said the Leafs general manager Tuesday as he looked ahead to the series which opens here tonight. "Hap's got the plays to beat them; what we have to do is not make mistakes."

SMYTHE RATED Toronto's two top forward lines—Syl Apps, Harry Watson and Bill Ezmicki and Ted Kennedy, Vic Lynn and Howie Meeker—ahead of anything the Red Wings have got and figures his third line of Nick Metz, Gaye Stewart and Joe Kluckay good enough to look after any third line the opposition can get together.

Added confidence comes from the defence situation. Garth Bosch, out for weeks with a groin injury, returned to action last Saturday night and is ready for the playoffs. Wally Stanowski, veteran performer who also has been out with an injury, is expected back in the lineup by Saturday night's second game of the series. In the background is Tommy Anderson, the veteran war horse of the old New York Americans who played with Hollywood out on the Pacific coast this season. He is eligible for playoff duty with the Leafs. Of course, rookies Gus Mortson and Jimmy Thomson, forced by injuries to teammates to carry the bulk of the Toronto defensive load, are ready to go.

THEN THERE'S the goaltending where Turk Broda "is better than Harry Lumley and certainly much better than Red Almas, if Lumley can't play."

Smythe sums it up: "Things look pretty good. Barring injuries, we should take them."

The Red Wings, due here today, have to do better against the Leafs than they did during the season if they hope to overcome the Toronto

Will Not Compete Against Barb Ann

BOSTON, March 26 (CP)—Gretchen Merrill, United States women's figure skating champion, will not compete this week-end at Ottawa in the North American championships, a friend of the family of the Boston housewife indicated last night.

The friend said that Miss Merrill, who finished third at Stockholm last month in the world figure skating championship event won by Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa, now is on vacation in California.

Miss Scott is defending her North American title at the Ottawa meet.

Hope To Re-Build Argo Rowing Club

TORONTO, March 26 (CP)—Around the smoking ruins of the Argonaut rowing club, destroyed by a spectacular three-alarm fire early Tuesday there was confidence among directors that the historic club which gained its origin well back in the last century, will rise from the ashes.

Damage was estimated at $114,000 but more than $130,000 will be required to replace the Lakeshore club building, its furnishings and 38 racing shells. Hundreds of silver trophies, medals, pennants and pictures which were lost, are irreplaceable.

RESCUED FROM THE flames was the Grey Cup, emblematic of the Dominion Football championship and held by the Argos. Battered but recognizable, club officials hoped the trophy could still be used as the title award.

As flames ripped through the stucco and frame building, a squad of carmen joined firemen and directed them to the Grey Cup. A fireman managed to hook the trophy with a long pole and toss it out of the inferno.

The famous aquatic club, founded in 1872, was beyond hope of saving when firemen arrived as flames and smoke poured from every window. The fire was first noticed at 2:12 a.m. and firemen still poured water on small outbreaks more than eight hours later.

Chance Russia Will Enter Olympics

LONDON, March 26 (AP)—A Soviet sports biggie dropped in on the Olympic organizing committee parlay, stoking up one of the hottest sports riddles in London—will the Russians compete in the 1948 Olympics?

The inquiring gentleman was Gen. Michael Gromov, president of the Moscow Sports Federation, who is visiting Britain with a delegation from the supreme Soviet.

He asked a flock of questions of Lt.-Col. T. P. M. Bevan, executive organizing secretary, showing particular interest in equestrian events—natural for an old cavalry man—and athletics in general.

The general departed with plenty of reading matter on the Olympics but dropped no hints—other than his avid interest—that the Russians would compete in the 1948 games.

MEN OF VISION

Cartier · 1865

Painted for Calvert by Adam Sheriff Scott, E.C.A.

On February 7, 1865, Sir George Etienne Cartier delivered in Parliament his historic Confederation speech, a striking appeal for unity. Prime Minister of United Canada, leader of Lower Canada, an outstanding Father of Confederation, Cartier possessed in full measure the vision of a great statesman.

In 1865 CARTIER said:
"Work Together for the Common Welfare"

In 1622 CALVERT said:
"Work Earnestly for the Benefit of All"

OVER THREE CENTURIES AGO Calvert said to his New World pioneers: "Preserve unity... prepare for the future."

Famous English statesman and Secretary of State to King James I, Calvert may well have foreseen

Canada's great promise of nationhood when he wrote in 1622: "I see the future... it is a good country."

Man of Vision far back in the 17th Century, Calvert's ideals of unity have been shared by all men of vision since Calvert's time: Today... let each of us be a man of vision... "work earnestly for the benefit of all."

The full measure of our stature as a nation depends upon unity of purpose. There is only one Canada for clear-headed Canadians.

Clear heads call for... a United Canada

Backs Authority Tax Appeal Court

By CHESTER BLOOM
EDMONTON BULLETIN Ottawa Bureau
OTTAWA, March 26.—Senator W. D. Euler told a committee of the Senate this morning that he believes the new deputy minister of taxation, F. B. Brown, is more favorably disposed toward making authority of the new tax appeal court superior to ministerial discretion than was his predecessor, C. Fraser Elliott, K.C. A Senate committee last year recommended severe restriction of the minister's discretionary powers in appeals against tax rulings. Due largely to opposition by Mr. Elliott, the Senate committee recommendation was rejected by the government side in the Senate.

THE MATTER CAME up as a kind of an aside in the Senate immigration committee this morning. Commenting on criticisms that it seemed impossible to get the government to move toward increased immigration, Senator Euler said it was a matter of keeping everlastingly at it. He recalled the Senate's futile battle last year to curb ministerial discretion over tax regulations by means of the appeal court. Then he made his remark concerning a new approach by Mr. Brown to the subject.

Survey Is Planned Of Auto Business

By DAVID J. WILKIE
DETROIT, March 26 (AP).—The estimated backlog of 5,000,000 unfilled new car orders in the United States apparently is beginning to look a little exaggerated to automobile merchandisers.

The National Automobile Dealers' Association is planning a survey to get information concerning how new car business is holding up, particularly with respect to the extent of cancellations and the reasons given for them.

IN THE EXUBERANCE following VJ-Day a lot of fantastic estimates of accumulated automobile business were given out; some sales executives asserted the industry could not catch up with the demand if it produced at top levels for five years.

Nobody in the car industry visualizes demand for new vehicles as drying up now; but most of the sales chiefs and competent industry observers know that it already has begun to level off. This undoubtedly is due chiefly to the price spiral that put the lower-priced vehicles in what before the war was the medium-price bracket.

Soviet Demands Atom-Plan Study

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., March 26 (AP).—An emphatic Russian demand for immediate consideration of the Soviet plan for harnessing the atom confronted delegates to the United Nations atomic energy commission today.

ANDREI A. GROMYKO, Soviet delegate and chairman of the commission, put the issue up to the delegates during a closed meeting of the working committee of the commission last night. Gromyko warned that his proposals could not be "by-passed" and said they would have to be considered in attempts to reach agreement.

He added that any moves to pass over his proposals would be resisted. The committee adjourned until Monday without a decision on its plan of work.

Cut Down on Spoilage

"Bug Busters" War On Granaries' Insects

By Jack Aveson

WINNIPEG, March 26, (CP).—Canada's bug busters—the agricultural department's counterpart of radio's Gang Busters—are tilting their clinical lances at the insects whose threatened infestation of too-long stored grain is bringing worry to the Canadian Wheat Board.

A FEW DAYS AGO the board's assistant chief commissioner, W. C. McNamara, warned that unless sufficient box cars were made available to move the millions of bushels of grain still stocked in farm granaries in northern Saskatchewan and Alberta the spoilage would be great.

Today Dr. B. M. Smallman, officer in charge of the stored product insect laboratory here, agreed that there was "a real danger of widespread losses" but added that because of the extensive forays made by the bug busters into the field of insect research the danger was not as great as it would have been some years ago.

The bug busters—otherwise known as technically skilled personnel employed by the Dominion government's agriculture department's science service—today claim even a certain understanding of the Confused Flour Beetle, so named "not because the beetle itself was confused but because it stymied the entomologists who first studied it."

TO THE UNINITIATED, it is one of the many bugs whose infiltration into food warehouses and food processing plants is being halted by the bug busters' scientific blockade.

The scientists' campaign against insects in granaries and other storage buildings—the battle also is being extended to cover mold growth, the other type of infestation feared by farmers—is augmented by advice to agriculturists concerning a relatively simple infestation removal method.

Mrs. Dick

of evidence and addresses at her trial for murder in the death of the infant known as Peter David White MacLean, whose tiny body was found packed in cement in a suitcase hidden in Mrs. Dick's home a year ago.

THE JURY RETIRED at 4:45 p.m. yesterday and it was not until 9:25 p.m. that the jury foreman pronounced the verdict—guilty of manslaughter, not murder.

The end of the baby slaying case will be the signal for start of the murder trial against Evelyn's father, Donald MacLean, and her one-time boy friend, William Bohozuk, jointly charged with murder in the slaying of Evelyn's husband, John Dick.

Bohuzuk was jointly charged with Mrs. Dick in the baby slaying but was not called. Presumably the baby case against him awaits outcome of his trial in the Dick slaying.

ALSO HELD OVER for the time being is the question of the acquittal of Mrs. Dick in the torso-slaying. First convicted, then acquitted, of the slaying of her husband, she was awaiting action in the crown's announced decision to appeal the acquittal.

Mr. Justice Lebel told Mrs. Dick he had reached the conclusion that she must be sentenced to the maximum penalty he was allowed to impose. There were no mitigating circumstances.

HE DESCRIBED her as "horrible." The crown alleged that after Mrs. Dick left Hamilton with her new-born son in September, 1944, she killed the child and hid the body—encased in cement—in a suitcase.

As the trial judge passed sentence the dark-haired widow stood erect in the tense and crowded courtroom and appeared to have more emotional composure than the judge who sentenced her. Then her lip twisted quickly and she wheeled, lowered her head and marched under guard from the courtroom.

Plan Extra Tax On Mineral Areas

Additional revenue is expected in provincial coffers from a bill which calls for a tax on the principal mineral in a producing area, according to terms of a bill amending the Mineral Taxation Act, introduced into the Legislature Tuesday night.

ONE SECTION of the bill, which is a consolidation of a previous bill, retains unchanged the levy of a general tax on all minerals, the tax not to be greater than five cents an acre.

Mystery Light On Broken Ship

HONOLULU, March 26 (AP).—An unexplained eerie light appears nightly aboard the deserted stern section of the tanker Fort Dearborn, which broke in two at sea March 12. The captain of the United States Navy tug Lipan, towing the section toward Pearl Harbor, radioed Honolulu yesterday.

"Suggest hulk be searched on arrival (Sunday) as light observed every night which appears to be lantern. There is no one aboard to my knowledge. Hulk inspected for water-tightness and all compartments were dark and all ports closed. Two ports are open this morning."

Twenty-two men were rescued from the stern and 10 from the bow section, twelve men reported to have leaped overboard in fear immediately after the tanker's bow tore off in heavy seas, are missing and presumed drowned.

Say B.C. Premier Attacks Co-ops

VICTORIA, March 26 (CP).—Opposition members charged Premier Hart's coalition government with attacking the co-operative movement in British Columbia Monday during discussion of an amendment to the Fisheries Act that would make co-operative associations liable to payment of fish buyers' licences.

W. H. BRETT, CCF member for Prince Rupert and an executive member of the Northern Fishermen's Co-operative Association, said co-operatives were not fish buyers, but merely did the handling for their own members.

At present the associations handling fish collection are exempt from the $25 licence. The amendment would place co-operatives in the same category as private enterprise buyers.

Fisheries commissioner Leslie H. Eyres maintained that the bill was "fair and just." He said the bill had been discussed with co-operatives and that it would be "unfair to tax one man $25 and let another engaged in the same occupation go tax free."

a radius of 50 miles and more. Anxious families, still holding a thread of hope as the chill night hours passed with only nine of their men brought out alive, pressed against ropes at the pit head and watched the mercy crews come and go.

AT ONE TIME ambulances were lined for about a quarter of a mile. Their lights, with those of hundreds of automobiles, mingled with the blue setting.

Women, crying softly, huddled in blankets and sagged into chairs and appeared to be numbed by the shock. Several collapsed. Relatives stood about them and protected them from the pushing crowd.

Exhausted Miners Stunned by Tragedy

By ROBERT A. SUITS

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 26 (AP).—Eleven exhausted miners, their faces smeared with coal dust, tossed and turned between clean hospital sheets today, too stunned by tragedy to give a coherent account of what they had seen.

SOME OF THEM had been caught underground by explosion, and some had gone in with rescue squads and been overcome.

August Holzhauser, who has worked 35 of his 33 years in the entry ways of the mine—Centralia Coal Company No. 5—told something of the terror that struck when coal dust and black damp, the deadly fumes, filled the passageways yesterday shortly before the night shift was to replace the day.

"It was the only accident I was ever in and it's going to be my last," he grinned. "I've dug my last mine of coal."

On a bed beside him, hidden by a screen, another miner was held down by attendants as he went through the violent movements characteristic of a man coming "out from under" the fumes.

ANOTHER MINER had run in spasmodic circles when the cold, fresh air hit his lungs.

"The power lights went out and then I smelled the coal dust," Holzhauser said. "The fan was cut off for a few minutes, but then it went back on."

"It was plenty smoky. I brought out one man and then I passed out. My legs just gave way."

In an emergency ward Era Boles, a rescuer, fought off the effects of a sedative and talked with friends. "I don't think there's any chance for the others," he said. "I was one of four who came up alive out of a group of 70."

The only animal life found in Great Salt Lake, Utah, is the larvae of certain flies and tiny brine shrimps.

MR. GOODLAND, also a noted British alpinist, and a member of the Mount Everest Expedition of 1935, is touring Canada, exchanging views with Canadian education authorities in the nine provinces and conferring on behalf of the British ministry of education with Canadian education heads for increasing the number of teacher exchanges between the two countries.

The new British Education Act, a product of the last coalition government, is being well received by the people of Britain, Mr. Goodland said.

ITS MAIN features are the raising of the compulsory school attendance age to 15 from 14 years within the next year and to 16 in another year or so, together with the compulsory continuation of education by 1950 of those between 16 and 18.

In this latter feature it is planned to have all children over 16 who have left school to attend colleges for one day a week without loss of time or pay no matter at what the students are engaged.

THE OBJECT is to make secondary education available to all British children on a compulsory basis, Mr. Goodland said. Standards of school construction and staffing have also been raised.

While in Edmonton Mr. Goodland addressed students at the University of Alberta and a group representing the Alberta Teachers' Association at a noon luncheon in the Macdonald hotel.

BEFORE RETURNING to Britain in April Mr. Goodland will try scaling some of the Canadian Rockies at Banff in a two-day visit.

The visitor is convinced that Mount Everest will yet be conquered. The 1933 expedition, of which he was a member, ascended to within 800 feet of the peak, the closest any expedition ever came to complete triumph.

Hotel Rumors Are Circulating

With the coming of spring also comes the usual rumors of proposed hotel construction in Edmonton.

The current rumor revives expectancy of the construction of a hotel here by the Ford Hotel Co., and Commissioner John Hodgson stated Wednesday that he expects to have conferences with officials of the company in the near future.

It is stated the company has five probable sites in view, including one on 102 street north of Jasper, another on 103 street and 100 avenue.

Last year company officials conferred on several times with civic officials on the hotel project, but definite action on construction was deferred.

Edmonton Council No. 447 of the United Commercial Travellers of America held its annual election of officers for the ensuing year.

Edgar Nobles and Len Beatty were appointed delegates to the grand convention to be held in Calgary in June, with William Weston and T. A. Davison as alternates.

Curling prizes for the Saturday afternoon curling, the UCT provincial championship and the ACT service club bonspiel were on display and presented to the winners.

COME ON KIDS, PLAY BALL: The St. Louis Cardinals are completing spring training at St. Petersburg, Florida, and the Boston Red Sox and other great teams are gearing up at other training camps. But on nearly every vacant corner lot, Edmonton baseball players are training for the season. In the above picture taken Monday, a group of McKay avenue school boys are hard at it on the school diamond, which only a week ago, was under snow and water. At bat is Dickie Bell, who has taken his stance prior to polling out a homer. His companions are crowding him a bit, but their interest, as shown by the expressions on their faces, is intense. Osborne, Calgary, who was chairman of the Alberta committee of the Victory Loan campaign during the war, will give the address to the graduating students of the University of Alberta convocation, May 14, it was announced Wednesday by Dr. C. F. McNally, university chancellor. Mr. Osborne and Chief Justice W. R. Howson will be given the honorary degrees of doctors of law at the ceremonies. Two other Albertans, J. E. Buchanan, Calgary, and J. W. Barnett, Edmonton, will be similarly honored at a fall convocation.

Police Seeking Driver of Auto

A nine-year-old girl barely escaped injury, a fence was knocked down, a parked car was badly battered and a school zone safety sign was clipped off at the base, all within seconds on Tuesday night, by a man believed to have been intoxicated and driving a stolen car.

Immediately after this series of events the driver jumped out of the auto and ran away. Tony Paish, 10624 98 street, owner of the automobile reported to police about 10:20 p.m. Tuesday that his auto was stolen between 9 and 10 p.m. from in front of his residence.

In the meantime, at 9:35 p.m. the auto had become involved in the above incidents at 117 avenue and 82 street.

According to witnesses the auto 216-28888 along 82 street, struck a parked car owned by Mike Demchuk, 11726 82 street, carried on and knocked over the sidewalk sign, where it almost struck 9-year-old Shirley Wanchuk, 11726 82 street and then came to rest across the street, but definite action on construction was deferred.

Both automobiles concerned suffered heavy damage.

North Phone Line Under New Control

The transfer of the Alaska Highway Telephone and Telegraph System from the control of the Royal Canadian Air Force, was announced today by Air Vice Marshal Kenneth M. Guthrie, CBE, Air Officer Commanding North West Air Command. The system will be taken over on April 1 by the department of transport with the Canadian National Telegraph Company acting as operating agent.

Construction of the system was begun by the U.S. War Department in August, 1942, and was completed in 1943.

The Alaska Highway Telephone longest "open wire" system in the world, there being 61,000 poles and 12,000 miles of wire and every type of telephone construction including submarine cable was used in its construction. From Edmonton to the border the line has a length of 1,804 miles.

To maintain the system it was necessary to build eighteen repeater stations approximately 100 miles apart. Headquarters for the present RCAF control system are in Edmonton with sub-headquarters at Dawson Creek and Whitehorse.

Fears Coal Industry May Become Liability

Fear that the government and people of Canada might allow the country's coal industry to become a liability was expressed in the Legislative Assembly Tuesday afternoon by Gordon Taylor (SC-Drumheller).

MR. TAYLOR introduced a resolution, given full support of the assembly, which requested:

That discrimination in favor of coal imports by subsidies should be ended; that markets for Canadian coal products be ensured that steady employment be thus provided for Canadian miners, and that red either by payment of freight subsidies on a permanent basis or by a complete overhaul of the freight rate structure.

In his remarks, Mr. Taylor told of the position of miners during depression days and predicted that unless a national coal policy was brought into being the same conditions would return.

He labelled the Carrol Commission report on the coal industry of Canada "the most disappointing document ever prepared at public expense."

"IN SPITE OF the fact that Canada's coal resources are estimated at 99,000,000,000 tons, the commission holds out no hope that coal mining can be made a great national industry," he continued.

He deplored the government's policy of subsidizing American mines when the country was so rich in coal.

He was supported by N. A. Willmore (SC-Edson) who pointed out that payment of the subsidy by the federal government had not become a permanent policy of that government. He contended that this was felt by mine operators, who could not predict with any security what the program for the following year might be.

E. O. Duke (SC-Picher Creek-Crows Nest) said one way to solve the coal problem for Alberta and for the west would be the encouragement of industry in the province. The Carrol report had indicated a broad division in interest between the western part of Canada and the eastern.

MR. DUKE THOUGHT every effort should be made to encourage immigration into the west, in order that industries which could

Blast Victim Is Recovering

An explosion in the Rite Spot Hat Cleaners, 9882 Jasper avenue, about 5:10 p.m. Monday caused two persons to be taken to the hospital suffering burns.

The proprietor, Gus Goms, received severe burns to the face and hands while the shoe shine boy, Stanley Soroks, was burned about the back of the neck and on the hands.

Goms was still in hospital Wednesday and was reported to be "doing fine." The other injured man was released soon after receiving treatment.

Fumes from the gasoline used for cleaning the hats circulated through the building, and were ignited by flames from a burner used to steam the hats. This caused the explosion. No damage was done to the building itself although a few hats were burned.

LEAGUE TO MEET
The Boyle Street Community League will hold its regular monthly meeting at the Bisell Institute, on Thursday at 8 p.m.

On Friday the League will hold its weekly whist drive and dance in Eagle's Hall on 105 avenue and 92 street.

26 Home Permits Issued in City

Twenty-six permits for homes were issued by the city architect's office during the week ended March 22, with a permit value of $117,700, to bring the total of such permits issued since Jan. 1 to 66, the value of which was $308,500.

This total is considerably below that of last year for the same period. Officials of the department said the heavy snow conditions in late February and March militated against early building operations.

A permit for $6,000 was issued to the Edmonton Foundry Co. for the erection of a frame and stucco building at 10054 79 avenue.

Plan Early Start Overhead Wiring

Work on the conversion of overhead wiring on Jasper avenue, from 103 street west to 124 street, will start as soon as the frost is out of the ground, Thomas Ferrier, superintendent of the transportation system, stated Wednesday.

He said the centre poles would be removed from 109 street west to 124 street, and new poles erected along Jasper avenue. The overhead wiring should be completed in the early summer, but the date on which trolley bus operation will start, depends on the delivery of 25 trolley coaches now on order. It is possible that trolley buses will be operating on this route in the fall.

The trolley wiring project calls also for a change over on 124 street north to 136 avenue, the terminus of the project under the 1947 construction plans.

Bill Before House

Govt. Pension Plan To Pay Up to $3,000

An act providing for pensions up to $3,000 for civil servants was tabled in the Legislative Assembly Tuesday evening. The act, known as the Public Service Pensions Act, is designed to replace the present retirement scheme.

THE BILL WAS tabled by Hon. A. J. Hooke, provincial secretary. Its provisions have been discussed with, and have been approved by members of the Civil Service Association of Alberta.

The plan is a contributory one, with employees allocating five per cent of their salaries to the fund. Interest will be paid at three per cent on these investments. According to the bill, the government never will contribute less than does the civil servant. The general revenue fund of the province will be called upon, if necessary, to meet claims which are not covered by the fund.

Employee contributions may be made for a maximum of 35 years, but any employee who has worked for not less than 25 years may retire after he has reached the age of 60 and receive benefits under the plan.

ANY EMPLOYEE who quits the government service before he has been in it for five years will lose his entire contribution.

Pensions, except for those entitled to the $3,000 annual payment, will be based on the amount of contributions into the fund.

Gratuities to a maximum of $1,500 may be paid to widows of employees who die before retirement age, which is set at 65 years for both male and female employees.

Wants Uniformity In City Charters

Uniformity in legislation in regard to cities of Alberta would be a desirable end, Dr. J. L. Robinson (SC-Medicine Hat) told the Legislative Assembly Tuesday afternoon, when he introduced a resolution requesting the government to consider passing a City Act.

DR. ROBINSON said the act should contain provisions which should be uniform throughout the province and suggested such items as the eligibility for voting and qualifications required to run for civic office.

Speaking on the "daylight saving" clause which Calgary on Tuesday morning was permitted to retain in its charter but which Edmonton was denied, Dr. Robinson suggested this sort of discrimination would be eliminated by such a act.

He was supported by A. E. Fee (SC-Sedgewick) who has been chairman of the municipal law committee of the Legislature for nearly 11 years. Every year, Mr. Fee pointed out, cities in the province appealed for amendments to their charter. Should the province grow until it contained a large number of incorporated cities an almost impossible situation would develop.

The resolution passed without a voice raised in dissent.

Slightly Injured

Slight injuries were suffered by 85-year-old Dr. C. H. Lawford, 9919 88 avenue, when struck by an auto on 99 street near 88 avenue about 3:25 p.m. Tuesday. Police said the driver of the vehicle was Armand Charet, 9725 85 avenue. Dr. Lawford is reported to have received a cut on the forehead, but Wednesday morning was out digging his garden.

Standing Vote Taken

Mixed Drinking Plea Denied by Legislature

A resolution which asked the Alberta Liquor Control Board to permit mixed drinking in Edmonton and Calgary was quashed by a vote of 44 to 10 on division in the Legislative Assembly Tuesday afternoon.

THE TEN VOTING for the motion were J. H. Prowse (Army); F. C. Colborne (Air Force), originator of the resolution; L. D. Ward (Navy), secondor; Hon. H. Ansley, only cabinet minister who favored the resolution; H. B. Macdonald (Ind. Calgary); W. J. Williams (Ind. Edmonton); Arthur Wray (Ind. SC-Bantf-Cocaine); Charles Holder (SC-Calgary); Fred Anderson (SC-Calgary); and A. V. Bourcier (SC-Lac Ste. Anne).

J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton) and the CCF party members, Elmer E. Roper, Edmonton and A. J. E. Leisemer, Calgary, voted against the motion. A Division (Calgary) was not in the house at the time the vote was taken.

An amendment to the original resolution which requested the liquor control board to report back to the assembly one year hence with reasons why the ban on mixed drinking was applicable to the cities was defeated on a voice vote.

Had this amendment carried it would have had the effect of giving the entire resolution a 12-month "boast." It was introduced by Mr. Roper.

WHEN HE INTRODUCED the resolution, Mr. Colborne said he was not considering the entire question of drinking, but felt that the people of the cities were being denied a privilege accorded to those in smaller towns.

Part of the population has had the opportunity in the past few years to observe how the problem of drinking and mixed drinking is handled in other provinces and in other countries, Mr. Ward said in seconding the resolution.

These were the returned men. He said they were far from satisfied with conditions which exist here.

Segregation showed a hangover from old days when no woman who drank in public was a "lady" and when a man drank only to get drunk, the navy member claimed.

He asked that drinking be regarded in this province in its proper perspective.

"IF PEOPLE are going to drink, let's make it possible for them to drink decently," he pleaded.

N. B. James (SC-Edmonton) suggested a plebiscite be taken in the cities concerned so that members could be guided by the result. He announced that he would not vote on the resolution. When division was called he left the house.

When he asked himself if the passage of this resolution would make Alberta a better province in which to live, he was forced to answer "No," Mr. Roper said, as he moved the amendment to give the resolution a 12-month boost.

Premier Ernest Manning admitted that husbands and wives should have the privilege of drinking together but suggested they could do that under present regulations in their own homes.

THE REGULATIONS had been adopted, the premier said, at the request of hotel keepers and law enforcement officers when beer parlors first were opened.

"The country, the province and all of us would be better off if we didn't have this liquor racket at all," the premier said. He urged both the amendment and the resolution be defeated.

Mr. Ansley said present restrictions make it necessary for people to drive on the highways after they have had too much to drink.

He said he was opposed to the discriminatory features of present regulations.

J. Harper Prowse blasted the present system of beer parlors and compared them unfavorably with the British "pub" system.

THE GOVERNMENT makes ten million dollars a year from the liquor traffic, he pointed out, and suggested that for that reason, if for no other, the government should accept responsibility for present conditions.

If hotel keepers complain they can not control drunken people they predict as a result of mixed drinking, "then it's high time we got some decent pub keepers," he said.

W. J. Williams (Ind.-Edmonton) supported the army member and said, "Some hotels in this province are a disgrace to people who run them. They only think of how many glasses of beer they can get from a keg."

He pointed to difficulties to tourists arriving in the city, who if they wish a glass of beer, must separate and drink among strangers.

WHO WANTS TO DRINK a glass of beer at home? he questioned. Drinking in public places is done for companionship, he added.

Rev. J. A. Wingblade (SC-Wetaskin) suggested that young people should be able to find the same amount of sociability over a nice cup of coffee."

He said the province should collect twice what it does at present from the liquor traffic, since if people wanted to spend their money that way, the government should be able to reap the benefit.

School Workers To Get Pension

Adoption of a pension plan for non-teaching employees of the board; approval of applications of four teachers to go on exchange to England next year and the referring back to the finance committee of a resolution on free textbooks for school children, were highlights of Tuesday night's meeting of the Edmonton Public School Board.

J. C. Macdonald, chairman, presided.

APPLICATION will be made to city council for inclusion of school board employees, not teachers, in the pension plan of City of Edmonton employees. The recommendation urged such a plan to apply for women at 60 and men at 65 years of age, to be applicable after 25 years' service.

The present pension of $40 per month (city's share) coupled with the employee's share of five percent of salary deduction, was recommended.

Provision is made for a proportionate pension for those who retire after 55 years of age, and have given 15 years' service; also a small cash grant for those who serve from 10 to 14 years.

THE PENSION is to be made effective as from Jan. 1, 1947. Those who are now at the retiring age are to have their choice of the present retiring allowance or the pension.

The following teachers will go to England on exchange this year: R. S. Sheppard, school superintendent; Rita Speers, University elementary school; Veronica Davis, McDougall High; Emma Horton, Highlands; and Lina Berlid, Sherbrooke.

Industrial Uses Of Alcohol Told

Classifying industrial uses of alcohol in three categories, as a liquid substance, a raw material in the manufacture of other essential products and as a solvent.

H. R. Alley, vice-president and general manager of Gooderham and Worts, Ltd., Toronto, spoke to members of the Gyrto Club at luncheon at the Macdonald Tuesday.

SPEAKING ON "Alcohol In Industry and in War," Mr. Alley said that the use of alcohol as a disinfectant was known in earliest times as confirmed in Biblical stories of wine being used to dress wounds.

"From birth to death, everybody living in a civilized community uses alcohol," he said.

"Its war-time uses are well known to industry," he said, "and its peace-time uses in providing us with many necessities and amenities of modern life are unlimited."

CYRIL BURCHALL

Cyril Burchall, Athlete, Dies

Cyril Burchall, 1922 '80 avenue, well known Edmonton sports figure died Tuesday morning in the Colonel Mewburn Pavilion. He was 51 years old.

HE WAS a graduate of Saint Francis Xavier University at Antigonish, Nova Scotia, and also took a post-graduate course at Notre Dame University. He was formerly a member of the Edmonton Separate School staff. He taught also in the Garneau High School and Strathcona High School.

He was prominent in sports circles and also acted as talent scout for Tom Loeb, supervisor of athletics at Loyola University in Los Angeles.

WHILE AT Notre Dame, he played under the late Knute Rockne at the time "Four Horsemen" were famous. During the First Great War he served four years overseas with the Canadian Army. He also took part in the Murmansk expedition with the Canadian forces.

He is survived by Mrs. Burchall, three children, John Donald, Ann and Rosemary; three brothers, Charles and Robert, both of Sydney Mines, Nova Scotia, and Peter in Halifax, and one sister, Mrs. J. A. Gillis of Sydney Mines.

A funeral service will be held at Saint Anthony's Pro-Cathedral on Thursday at 10 a.m. The Rev. C. J. Foran will officiate. Burial will be in the Edmonton Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Private Bills Get 3rd Reading

At the second night sitting of the current session of the Alberta Legislature two private bills were given third reading Tuesday night.

THEY WERE amendments to the Red Deer city charter and the bill respecting the Canada Trust Company Ltd.

Both bills were given second reading. One of them gives the province the right to collect a five per cent corporation income tax, bringing the total income tax on corporations in Alberta up to 35 per cent.

Another bill given second reading earmarks $600 of a members $2,000 sessional indemnity as expenses.

Reject Increase In Teachers' Pay

Suggestion that the government raise the minimum salary for teachers was turned down by the Legislature Tuesday afternoon division, and a resolution which would have set minimum wages at 65 cents an hour throughout the province also was rejected.

HON. R. E. ANSLEY, minister of education pointed out that the teacher salary resolution, introduced by A. J. E. Leisemer (CCF-Calgary) should have been brought up for discussion when the house was considering amendments to the School Act. He urged that there be more discussion of the problem before education authorities are directed to guarantee a higher minimum wage.

When he moved his resolution, Mr. Leisemer said the remuneration offered teachers was not sufficient to induce young people to enter the profession.

The first place in which cuts occur in times of recession was in the salaries of teachers and civil servants, Gordon Taylor (SC-Drumheller) said.

Young people cannot be induced to enter the profession, he said, by holding out prospects of a reward 25 years hence, but only by returns which may be expected promptly.

J. Percy Page (Ind.-Edmonton) suggested the minimum salary should be set at $1,200 a year.

ON DIVISION the resolution was declared lost by 34 to 14.

In the labor resolution, which was introduced by Arthur Wray (Ind.-SC-Bantf-Cocaine), the house turned down a suggestion that a minimum wage of 65 cents an hour be enforced over the entire province, by supporting an amendment that the Board of Industrial Relations be requested to make a survey with a view to setting a higher minimum wage. The amendment did not specify any particular rate.

O. B. Moore (SC-Ponoka) moved the amendment, which was carried on a voice vote.

The eye exercise Josephine Lowman suggests in her column today is not nearly as complicated as the eye trick Actress Rita Hayworth practices here.

By Josephine Lowman

Q. "I have poor eyesight and I would like to know if there is any way of improving it. I hate to wear glasses, and they mar my appearance."

A. The only exercises I am qualified to give you are those for resting the eyes. I suggest that you consult an oculist about this. There is one system of eye exercise which many people have written me about, saying it has helped them greatly. I myself cannot testify as to its value. However, glasses are so attractive today, with such perky and becoming contours, that I wouldn't bother too much about the effect on your appearance. If your eyes need glasses, you should get them. Straining with the eyes not only damages them but makes you unattractive.

Q. "Please tell me whether or not creams to enlarge the bust are harmful."

A. So far as I know there are no creams which will enlarge the bust. I suggest you consult your physician before using anything of the sort.

Q. "I am a constant reader of your column and you have always helped me. Now I have an annoying problem. Recently I have lost weight and the scales seem to vary from day to day. For instance, Monday of this week I weighed 107½ pounds (with clothes and shoes). Today, Friday, the same scales showed 109. I was wearing clothes and shoes of equal weight. I work as a secretary eight hours a day, six days a week. I bowl once a week at least, roller skate one night a week, occasional dancing and take swimming lessons one night a week. This is in addition to my regular nightly exercises. Is this sufficient exercise?"

A. A variance of two pounds can come from any number of different factors. Whether or not you have eaten recently, elimination, or water retention. You know you can lose as much as four pounds through heavy perspiration and then get it all back by drinking water. I imagine that some of these factors enter into the picture, since you say you are staying within your calorie allowance. I think you are doing very well by yourself so far as exercise is concerned and know that you will have good byproducts in vitality and figure.

Q. "I am 15 years old and my only protruberance is posterior. Besides, I have flat feet. What, if anything, should I do?"

A. You need some hip line exercises. Do the ones I recommended in my answer to a question in yesterday's column: 1. Lie on your back with your legs straight and your arms stretched out on the floor—from your shoulders. Swing the left leg over the right (with a stiff knee) and try to touch your left toe to your right hand. Swing back to place. This time swing your right leg over your left and try to touch your right toe to your left hand. Swing back. If you cannot touch toe to hand, reach as far as you can toward it. Let your hips roll and keep your hands on the floor.

2. Sit on the floor, legs out in front of you, one hand on the floor on each side. Lean back until your body weight falls over the fastest part of your hips. Now roll back and forth, catching yourself on each side with your hands.

For flat feet, do the following ones: Wiggle your toes at every opportunity. Sit on a chair with your legs crossed right leg crossed over your left. Pull the toes of your right foot toward the bottom of your foot. Do the same thing with the left foot. Hold a moment. Relax.

Next, stand on a handkerchief with your foot in the middle of it. Try to pull the handkerchief under your foot with your toes. Do these three a few times the first day and continue until you are doing each one many times each day. Wiggle your toes before going to sleep at night.

Minute Make-Ups

Whether in your office or your home it is important to be Well Groomed! Those who wear glasses sometimes forget to clean them often enough. Get into the habit of keeping your glasses bright and shining by cleaning them with a good quality witch hazel. You can also use it to clean your face, freshen up your hair and cool off your hot perspiring hands.

Diagnosing Man Difficult Problem

I get unnumerable letters from teen-age girls asking how they can tell whether a boy is in love with them or not. To which I regretfully reply that they can't. That is one of the unsolved mysteries of life. The first woman began wondering over the problem and the youngest bachelorette is still wrestling with it and not one of them has discovered any sure way of diagnosing a man's symptoms and finding out whether that pale, wan look is indignation, or the deathless passion.

Every girl who sets out on the Sea of Romance does it at her own risk. She has no way of judging the state of a boy's affection for her, by what he says. He may mean it when he says in thrilling tones, "Beautiful, where have you been all these years in which I have been looking for you?" and again it may be just his line. And while naturally every starry-eyed maiden would like to be wooed in poetic language, prudence warns her that glibness in love-making only comes with experience, and that the man who says it the best may mean it the least.

AND IF A MAN'S words are not always a yardstick by which a girl can measure the depths of his love, neither are his acts. Many a man who fairly camps in a girl's living room and homes her up with sweet talk never poses the question. He likes Mom's good cooking. He enjoys the companionship of a clever, intelligent girl. He likes to be seen out with a good-looking but he has no intention whatever of taking on the responsibilities of a family man. So the poor girl waits and waits for the proposal that never comes because she had no way of telling whether his attentions were with intention or not.

Nor can a girl always tell whether a boy is in love with her or not by the way he treats her, for love affects men in different ways. In some it brings out all the domesticity in their natures, as a hot poultice brings out a rash. They are as faithful as a pet pup and literally dog a girl's footsteps. They fetch and carry for her and are always Johnny-on-the-spot to take her place. And if a girl returns their affection, she had just as well begin to get her hope chest together.

In other boys, love is just a sporting proposition. They are keen about a girl only so long as she is unattainable. They give her a grand rush until they drive all the other boys off then they begin to cool off. They break dates. They get hard to get along with.

And pretty soon the little bachelorette finds out that from being Johnny she is nobody's girl.

OTHER BOYS GIVE their attentions the absent treatment. They expect her to be a mind reader, and know that she is laps with them although they never mention the matter. They waste no money on gifts and flowers, and they never take their girl to any place of amusement unless it is somewhere that they want to go themselves. They call that love but it is self-love. And any girl who sets her affection on them will get a mighty poor run for her money.

Nor is the lad in love for himself who makes the girl do all of the counting. Whenever a girl has to do the telephoning, make the dates, take the boy in Papa's automobile whenever they go to a party, and rub his fur right way to keep him appeased, she had as well call it a day and check out.

Now, then, can a girl tell when a boy is in love with her? There is just one sure sign. When he rolls up his sleeves and goes to work to support her.

Mounted mail-carriers gave Amherst a sort of pony express as early as 1800.

Points for Parents

Not This

This

Encouraging a child to be a carbon copy of an older brother or sister is a sure way of making a failure of it.

BED-ROCKING ONLY A HABIT
At about the time the young child is ready to get on hands and knees and propel himself about the floor he may also develop the habit of rocking the bed while he puts himself to sleep.

He indulges this habit when he goes to sleep and often when he wakes in the morning. He rocks the bed until it fairly gallops over the floor. And I find that the parents' reaction to this is magnified when the bed-rocking is resented by other members of the family, or by families living nearby. Otherwise, there would seem to be no reason why such a habit should be generated over such a relatively harmless pastime.

There are two probable reasons for this habit. One is said to be the child's way of relaxing himself in preparation for sleep. Some children suck thumbs, chew on blankets, hug pet dolls or animals, pull hair, or ear suck lips etc. These all have a soothing effect and the indulging child gets glassy-eyed and eventually drifts off to sleep.

The bed-rocking is the same type of habit. It lulls the child by its rhythm and he falls down and goes to sleep.

Five habit may stem also from the child's lack of opportunities in daytime to satisfy the yearning of his muscles for vigorous exercise. He may be kept overlong in a playpen or a high chair or in a swing or even in his crib. He cannot crawl, walk, run or jump or swing as his fancy dictates. He is frustrated and hampered child. If he is very young, just beginning to want to creep, he may be placed where he cannot exercise this desire. A soft bed is no foundation for creeping. So the child gets into the classic cowering position and though he does not know he is sending a message to his mother and keeps it up until he is weary.

Bed-rocking is not a matter for punishment out of honest criticism of the child's daily opportunities to be as active as he needs to be. He'll soon, if given these opportunities, outgrow his cowering habit.

Our mother No. 64 "Curing Bad Habits" may be sent on sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope with this request to Myrtle Meyer, Editor in Charge of The Edmonton Bulletin.

A PLANT'S STRUGGLE FOR LIFE

(2) How Parasitic Plants Steal Food
Some plants, in their quest for food, have unusual difficulties to overcome, and therefore have unusual ways of feeding. We have told you of the insect-eating plants in bogs and marshy places, where the soil is poor in nitrogenous salts. These plants, by capturing and digesting insects, take out the secret nitrogenous food supplies.

Clusters of mistletoe, parasite that lives on a tree.

Farmers know that the pasture land is bound to be poor when there is a great abundance of the beautiful little flowers called eyebright. And why is this?

The soil does not yield enough to keep ordinary plants going. Those that get on there must have some peculiarity, such as very long roots, or very much branched roots, or very long tap-roots, or very long leaves, like grasses. The little eyebright has discovered another way out. It is a root-parasite. Some of its rootlets fit on to the rootlets of the grass, and there is absorption of supplies from the grass. This weakens the grass, of course, but it is also an indication that the soil is far from generous.

The dodder is a rather beautiful climbing plant that has lost the usual green pigment called chlorophyll. It twines round the stems of nettles, hops, wheat and other vigorous plants, and sends its suckers into the zone of the stem-bast, where the nutritive materials manufactured in the leaves pass down to places of storage. The dodder at first gets its water and salts from the soil, but afterward the connection with the ground withers away, and it lives on its host.

Very different is the mistletoe, which has plenty of green pigment but no connection with the ground. The shrub eats the white berry with its sticky pulp, and the seed, passed through the bird's food canal undigested, is deposited on TOMORROW: Diamonds That the branch of a tree, such as an apple or an oak. Sometimes, perhaps, the thrush, having failed to swallow the sticky fruit, wipes its bill on the branch, and the seed is anchored in any case, the seed of the mistletoe germinates on the branch of a tree, and sends its rootlets into the wood-rose of the stem, where the crude sap, consisting of soil-water and dissolved salts, passes up being green, the mistletoe plant can make plenty of carbon compounds on its own; but, having no connection with the earth, it must steal water and salts from its host.

There are but three examples of plant parasites—eyebright, dodder and mistletoe—but they illustrate this seamy side of plant life. Another possibility in the quest for food is to fatten on the dead. Many bacteria, many molds and rusts, besides some big fungi, live on living plants; many bacteria and some molds live on living animals. But others feed on what is dead and rotting, and they are called saprophytes.

We are familiar with the fungoid plants that feed on decaying leaves and branches, utilizing the ready-made organic matter which being without green pigment, they cannot make for themselves. Among the saprophytes are some flowering plants of high degree which have lost caste and become to a greater or less extent, dependent upon rotten vegetable matter.

Let us look for a moment at the interesting way in which plants enter into partnership with other plants, and occasionally with animals. To the great advantage of both parties it is one of the alternatives in the quest for food.

Acids of the pitcher plant digest insects attracted into it by the honey glands.

There are bacteria which form partnership with the roots of clovers, peas, lupines and other plants of the bean family, and enable them, in some mysterious way, to capture and utilize the free nitrogen of the air. There are many fungi which wrap themselves round the roots of plants and form a most useful sponge. The heather gets on well on very poor soil because it has a partner-fungus.

In a later article, we shall tell you how plants compete with each other in crowded areas, and how they protect themselves from the assaults of animals.

Mrs. Mary A. Finlay Marks 25 Years at Home

Beulah Home this year is marking the 25th anniversary of its appointment of its superintendent and "guiding spirit," Mrs. Mary A. Finlay, one of the original founders of the residence at 101 street and 134 avenue.

ON THE occasion of the completion by Mrs. Finlay of 25 years of service as superintendent of the home, warm tributes were paid by J. F. Lymburn, K.C. chairman of the board, and Elmer E. Roper, M.L.A. treasurer of the board.

"It is very fitting that tribute should be paid to Mrs. Finlay for the magnificent contribution she has made in what might be considered the most difficult field of social service work," said Mr. Lymburn.

He recalled early days in Edmonton, when life "in addition to being strenuous, involved all the temptations that are inherent in a pioneer land... a time when most people were out for themselves. Into these surroundings came Miss Chatham, Mrs. Finlay (who was then Miss White) and Mrs. Price (then Miss Schaefer)... a chosen band of devoted women whose main thought was for others and not for themselves."

"IN THE QUARTER of a century spent by Mrs. Finlay at Beulah Home, her life of devotion to her God, and to her neighbor, as represented by always distressed and sometimes broken lives, has been an inspiration and a challenge to all who have had the privilege of working with her," stated Mr. Roper.

He spoke of the appreciation of the staff of the home for the "kindly comradeship of a great woman who possesses the rare gift of a warm heart and sympathetic spirit combined with unusual administrative ability."

Both Mr. Lymburn and Mr. Roper offered congratulatory wishes to Mrs. Finlay, and expressed the hope that she "might long be spared to carry on the humanitarian work of which she has been so much a part and which is so much a part of her."

Total number of babies cared for during 1946 at Beulah Home was 187. Mrs. Finlay said in her annual report of the home.

Total number of girls cared for was 180 during the year; with 89 babies being adopted. Of the total, 89 per cent of the mothers are from Alberta, and 17 per cent from Edmonton. Eleven per cent are girls who formerly lived outside the province. Average age of the young women cared for is 21.

Mothers have come from various fields of occupation, included are waitresses, clerks and factory workers, 36 per cent; domestic workers, 20 per cent; girls living previously at home, 19 per cent; in institutions, 18 per cent; school girls, six per cent.

Total number of days of care spent in looking after the girls amounted to 11,412 while 11,705 days were spent in caring for the babies.

IN A REMINISCENT talk, Mrs. Finlay paid tribute to the staff of the home, who have been working since April, 1922. She mentioned particularly Mr. Lymburn, A. T. Cushing, Mr. Roper, Dr. C. U. Holmes and Dr. G. E. Swallow, baby specialist, as well as Mr. Owen, chairman of the house committee.

SHE SPOKE HIGHLY of the 18 years of service given by Miss Lilian E. Pratt and Mrs. Edith Phillips who served the same length of time at the baby cottage. Miss Margit Lee, head nurse, came to the home in 1929 from Norway and expects to re-visit her people in Europe this year.

Mrs. Finlay also found strength and understanding through the efforts of her daughter, Joyce.

MISS MILDRED PHAIR, in charge of the baby cottage reported busy activity in the sewing room, which is upstairs in the baby cottage. She stated grateful appreciation to the sewing circles of Edmonton, which contribute rompers, nighties, shirts and quilts for the babies, and noted the help frequently given by Mrs. Clara Neilson who sews aprons for the annual bazaar whenever she visits the city.

The home's bazaar and silver tea will be held April 16, when embroidery, crochet work and knitted garments made by the staff and home residents throughout the year will be displayed. Last year proceeds from the bazaar was used to buy furnishings for the home, and have made considerable improvements in the sitting room.

Former Manager Of Palliser Dies

May Name Bevin As Head Planner

LONDON, March 25.—(Reuters)—A report that Foreign Secretary Bevin may leave the Foreign Office to devote all his time to Britain's economic crisis was published today by the News Chronicle Liberal newspaper, under the heading "Bevin may be planner-in-chief."

THE NEWSPAPER said it was strongly rumored in high government circles that Bevin would make the switch to domestic politics when he returns from the present council of foreign ministers in Moscow.

"Prime Minister Attlee, it is believed, will ask him to take personal charge of the cabinet's plans for dealing with the economic crisis."

"THE IDEA, it is understood, is that Bevin will be given the top-level job of seeing that all the government's production schemes are properly co-ordinated, that the various priorities are rigorously pushed through against all departmental obstruction, that shortages are made up and manpower mobilized in the most effective manner as quickly as possible no matter what employers, trade unions and other sectional interest may say."

LONDON, March 25.—(AP)—Rumors that Ernest Bevin might resign as foreign secretary after the current Moscow conference and take over the job of Britain's production chief, drew a quick denial today from sources close to Prime Minister Attlee.

Compulsory VD Treatment in B.C.

VICTORIA, March 25.—(CP)—Treatment of venereal diseases will be compulsory in British Columbia under provisions of a bill introduced in the Legislature here Monday by Health Minister George S. Pearson. Aimed at suppressing B.C.'s venereal rate, the bill would give magistrates authority to summons infected persons who refused to submit to treatment and to detain them for a period of up to one year.

Recommendations Made Assembly Accepts Report On Hutterite Situation

Recommendations of a committee studying into the situation of the Hutterite problem in Alberta were "invariant" on the surface but constitute more or less an ultimatum to the Hutterites to get out of the province. F. C. Colborne (Air Force) told the Legislative Assembly Tuesday night.

MR COLBORNE submitted a resolution to return the report to the committee, suggesting amendments to present recommendations, which would, he thought, be less restrictive to development of the colonies.

His amendment, which was defeated, would have eliminated a provision in the report placing a 40-mile distance between colonies and another which would have restricted holdings to not less than 6,400 acres.

These would be replaced by one which would have held holdings of such groups so as not to exceed five per cent of the area of each municipality.

Mr Colborne was a member of the committee which studied the Hutterite question, but was unable to present a minority report.

IVAN CASEY (S.C.—Okanagan High River), who was chairman of the committee, disagreed with Mr. Colborne's suggested amendment.

R. E. Debolt (S.C.—Spirit River) said scattering of the colonies did not go far enough. He thought the Hutterites should be separated so that there would only be one or two families in a township. "Preferably one", he added.

There is plenty of room for these people, Gordon Taylor (S.C.—Drumheller) suggested in some parts of Greenland. They do not show any disposition to become Canadians.

Others taking part in the debate on the amendment included R. G. Hammell (S.C.—Didsbury), Arthur Weiss (Ind. S.C.—Ranfurly-Cochrane) and C. I. Savers (S.C.—Camrose).

MR COLBORNE's motion was lost on a voice vote.

Premier Ernest Manning pointed out that the house would have an opportunity to make amendments to terms of regulations when ensuring legislation was being considered by the assembly.

"If this government errs at all, let us err on the side of freedom for the individual," Premier Manning said.

After hearing L. G. Halmrast (S.C.—Warner) and Mr. Casey on acceptance of the report as it was submitted, the house voted to accept it.

At Board Meeting Free School Book Plan Meets Strong Opposition

Opposition to supplying free text books for all Edmonton school children, as proposed in a recent resolution brought forward by Dr. J. L. Morrison of the Edmonton Public School Board, has been voiced by members of the Property Owners' association of Edmonton.

THIS OPPOSITION was announced in a letter to the school board read at the Tuesday night meeting of the board.

The letter from the association reveals that at a recent meeting of the executive, a motion "Resolved that we oppose any increase in the provision of free books to public and high school students" was passed.

Reason for the association's stand is: "So long as nearly the whole cost of operating our schools is borne by one class of citizens, the owners of homes and other real property, no expenditures not absolutely essential should be incurred."

Another reason is: "If there was ever need of providing free text books for these students, that need has been greatly lessened, if not entirely eliminated, by the federal government's 'family allowance.'"

Third reason given is: "there are other ways in which the amount of money involved could be spent to better advantage."

Earlier discussion by the board revealed a sum nearing $85,000 would be necessary to finance the purchase of free text books.

DR. MORRISON, in replying to the letter, said "the statement that nearly the whole cost of operating the schools is borne by the owners of homes and other real property is incorrect." He said that, for the property owner, taxes on rented property are taken out of the rent before the profit is calculated. "Exemptions are allowed for taxes on properties other than those occupied by the owner."

Movie Writer Real-Life Crook

LOS ANGELES, March 25.—(AP)—The FBI disclosed the arrest Monday of Ernest G. Booth, 48, on a robbery charge, identifying him as a mystery story writer who wrote the movie script for "Ladies of the Big House."

Booth was taken in custody Monday night as he left a Hollywood restaurant with his wife — Special Agent R. B. Wood announced — on an indictment last July charging concealment of securities valued at nearly $250,000, stolen in a burglary in Seattle early in 1943.

Hood added that Booth also had been identified as the lone gunman who robbed a series of loan companies in Los Angeles, Hollywood, Glendale, Pasadena and Beverly Hills.

The FBI said two of Booth's novels, "Sins Screaming" and "Stealing Through Life" had been sold to movie studios for picture production, reporting that "he started his writing career in 1926 while serving time in Folsom prison."

BATAVIA, Java, March 25.—(AP)—The long-delayed agreement ending the 19-month-old Indonesian revolution and establishing a master plan for a United States of Indonesia was signed Tuesday by a Netherlands commission general and a delegation from the Indonesian republic.

Auto Insurance Scheme for B.C.

VICTORIA, March 25.—(CP)—Insurance legislation to pave the way for the introduction of the Manitoba plan of automobile safety responsibility was introduced in the British Columbia Legislature last night by Premier John Hart.

It would require companies issuing motor vehicle liability coverage to supply the policy holder with a card setting out particulars of the coverage, together with duplicate cards for any other persons normally driving the insured vehicle.

It is part of the liability scheme to be introduced in B.C. this year calling for the "grounding" of the driver and cancellation of the vehicle license in all accident cases involving death, injury or property damage over $25, until damage claims are satisfied and proof of financial responsibility is produced.

ABERDEEN, March 25.—(Reuters)—Edward Cross, 54-year-old bachelor bus driver, paid his penny and marked down on a little green pamphlet his predicted scores for the week-end record games. Tuesday he received word he had won $245,424, about $245,424, described as a world record football pool. After jotting down his scores, Cross stuck the pamphlet in his pocket and "almost forgot to mail it," he said.
